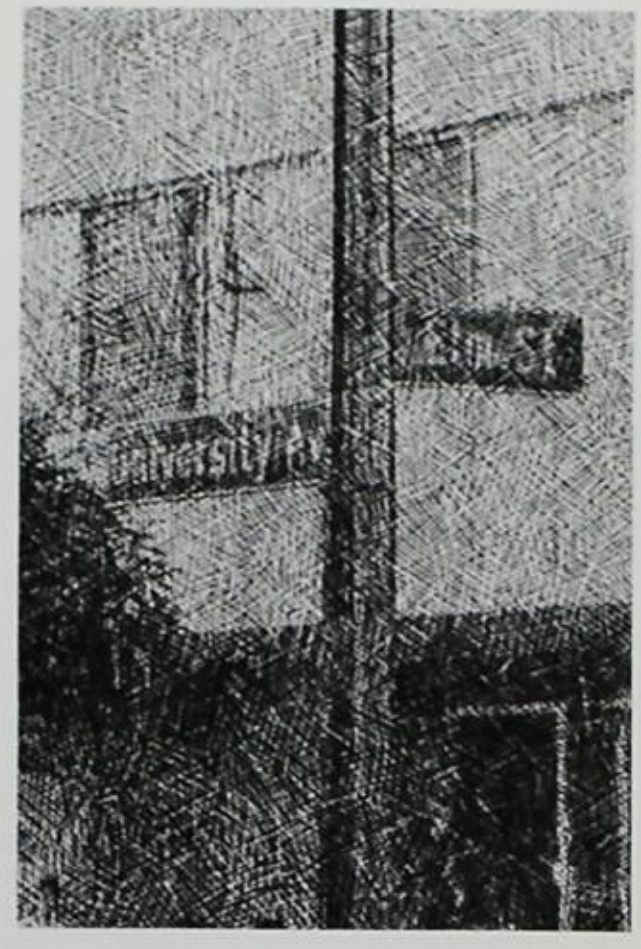
PEOPLE

Bellarmine is people, people crossing perhaps the most enigmatic intersection of life. The people of Bellarmine leave their childhood and proceed into adulthood, stopping momentarily to enjoy the combination of the two as they pause in the intersection to reflect.

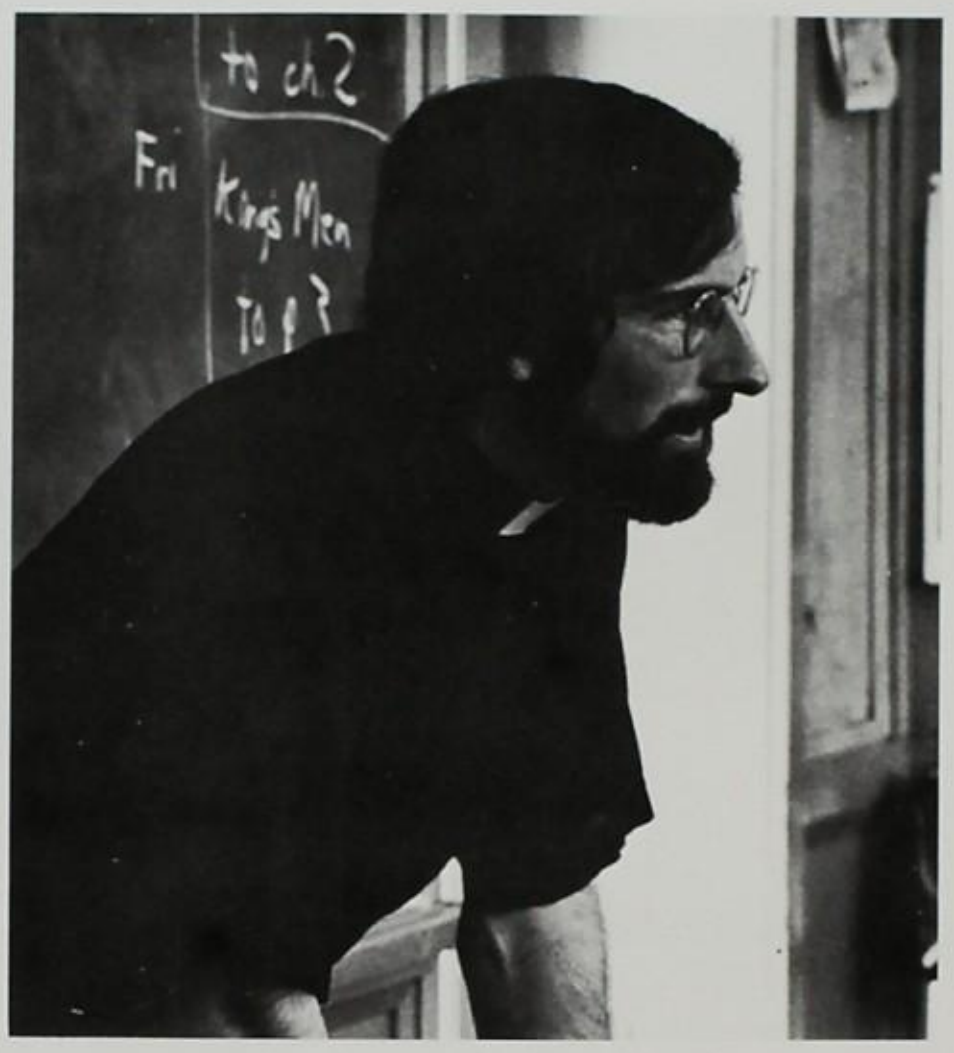
BILL FARRINGTON, S.J.

Appropriately we begin the people section by recognizing a person with whom many of us come in contact with everyday, Br. Farrington. Bill is friendly, helpful, and understanding in his dealings with people, whether they are good friends or student acquaintance. His duties in the office bring him into contact with many different people everyday, and to all of these people he responds with a laugh or a smile or a bit of humor.



ACTIVITIES

At Bellarmine, as on a street corner, activity provides a source of fascination and involvement. The activities at Bellarmine offer each student a creative challenge and an invitation to no longer simply be an individual in transit but also part of University and Elm.

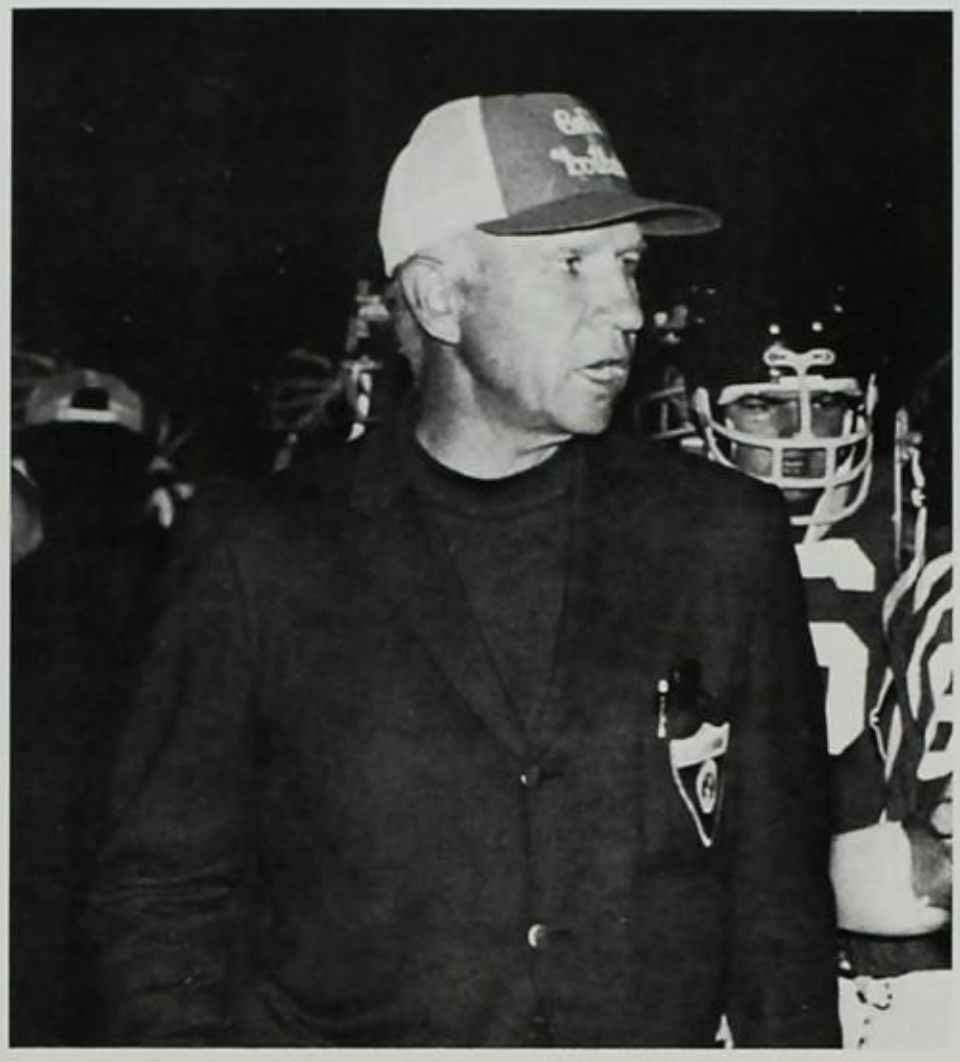


JOE STICKNEY, S.J.

Fittingly we introduce the activities section by recognizing a man who has been an active part of campus life for quite some time, Josh Stickney. Joe has been involved in dramatic productions, social work projects, the right to life group and several other activities, including helping the yearbook staff on deadline nights. Mr. Stickney brings a kinetic driving force to the various activities of which he is a part. Josh is not only a worker, but a worker who enjoys his work. Joe will be leaving Bellarmine this year, but he leaves behind the memory of the warmth and creativity he brought to campus life and activities.

SPORTS

Crosswalks provide the most direct route across an intersection. However, they hem you in. Likewise, most Bellarmine athletes discover that the discipline of athletics is a challenge. However, when this discipline has been met, the athlete finds he has arrived at a new place by the most direct route.



JOHN HANNA

When one thinks of sports at Bellarmine, one cannot help but think of John Hanna. Mr. Hanna has devoted twenty-five years of his life to athletics at Bellarmine. His championship football teams are a testimony to his coaching abilities. Mr. Hanna has instilled in his athletes a sense of sportsmanship and a hunger for competition which invigorated the performance of many winning Bellarmine teams. At present, Mr. Hanna is serving as Bellarmine's Athletic Director. His understanding of sports and sportsmanship characterize Mr. Hanna's administration of the Athletic Department. Under his leadership, Bellarmine has been established as a powerful competitor. But more importantly, Mr. Hanna's genteel ways and understanding of young people have brought a sense of pride and respect to Bellarmine.

Mr. Muth, S.J.

Like Alice who was transported to another world through the looking glass, the Bellarmine student experiences a profound transition during his four years. A young boy crosses the intersection leading to Bellarmine College Preparatory and enters a new world, a world that works a profound and irreversible change in his life, a world of growth to manhood, the world of University at Elm.

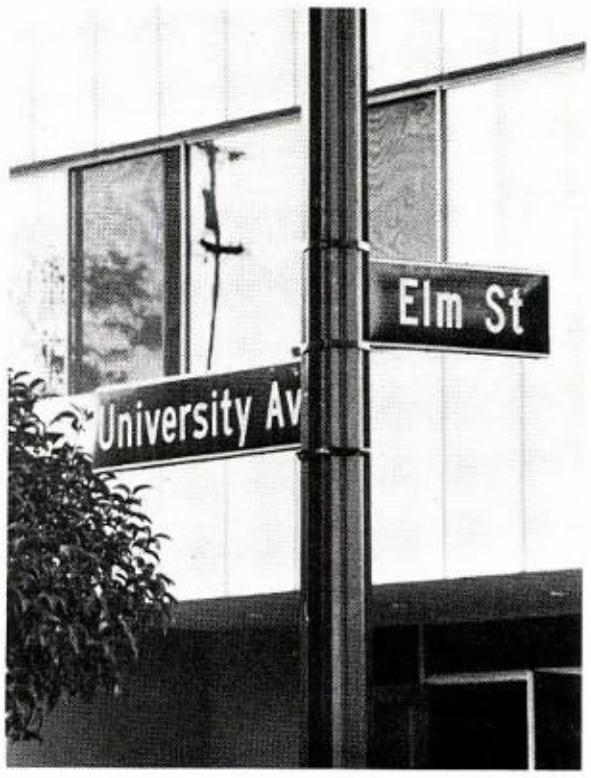
University at Elm

San Jose, California



The student-athlete. What is he? Primarily, he is a young man facing a challenge, the challenge to be the best he can be at a particular sport. Yet, he is also a student, a wayfarer crossing the intersection of University at Elm.

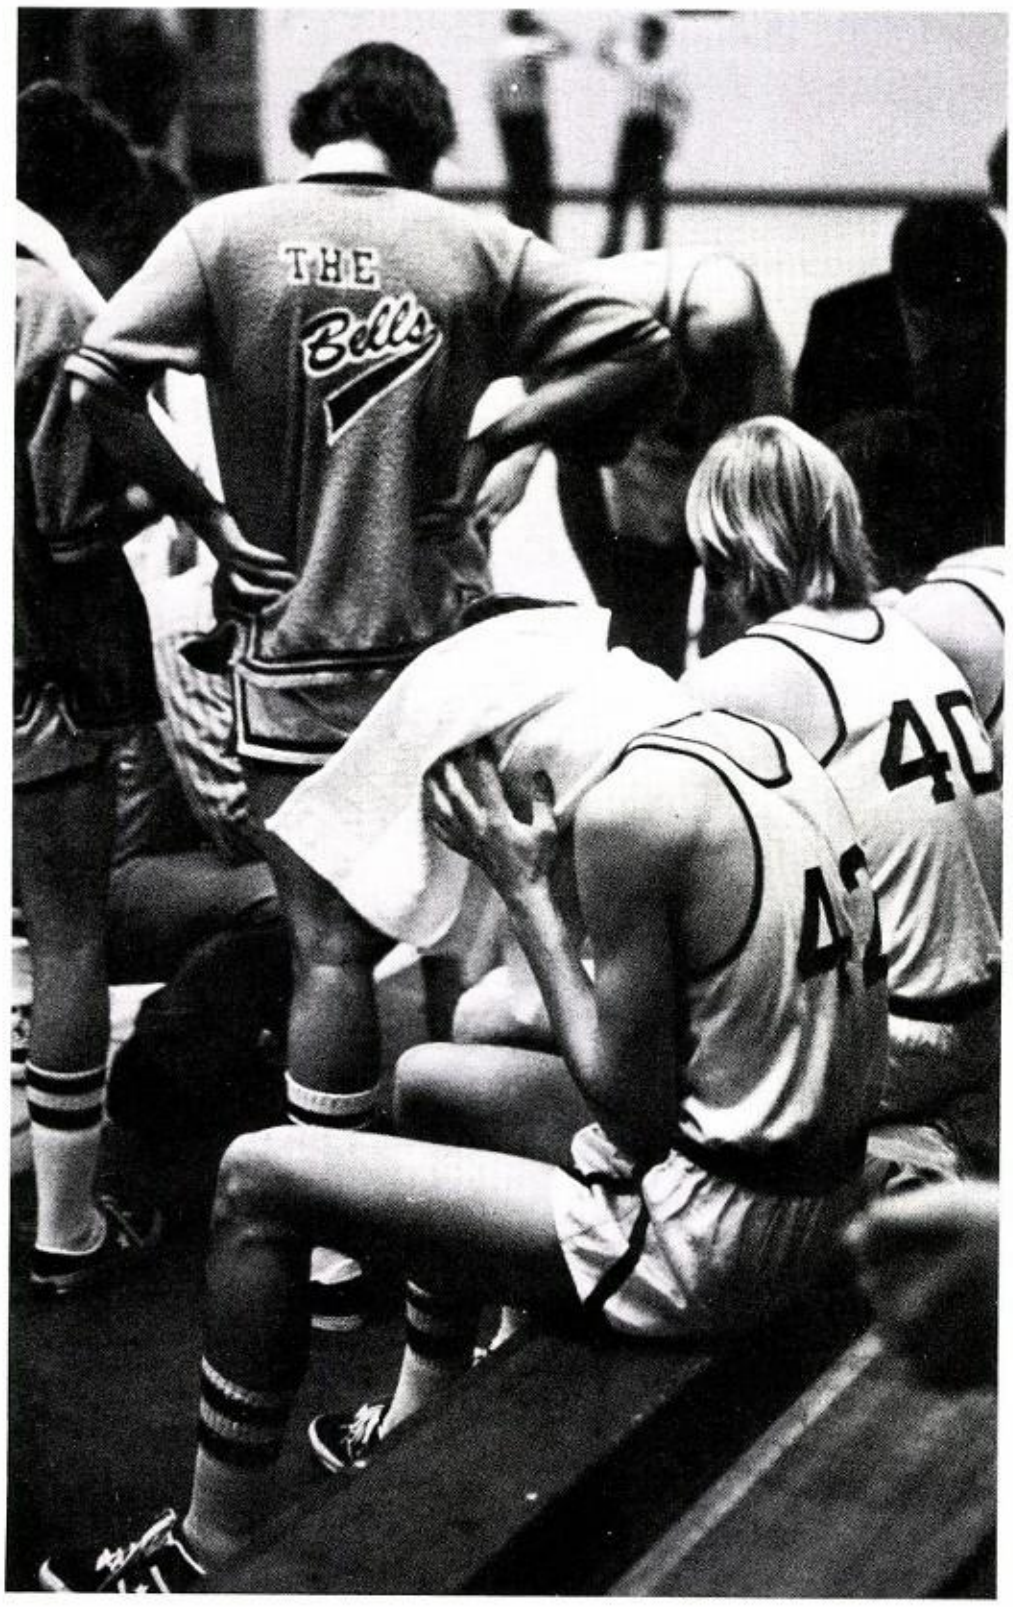
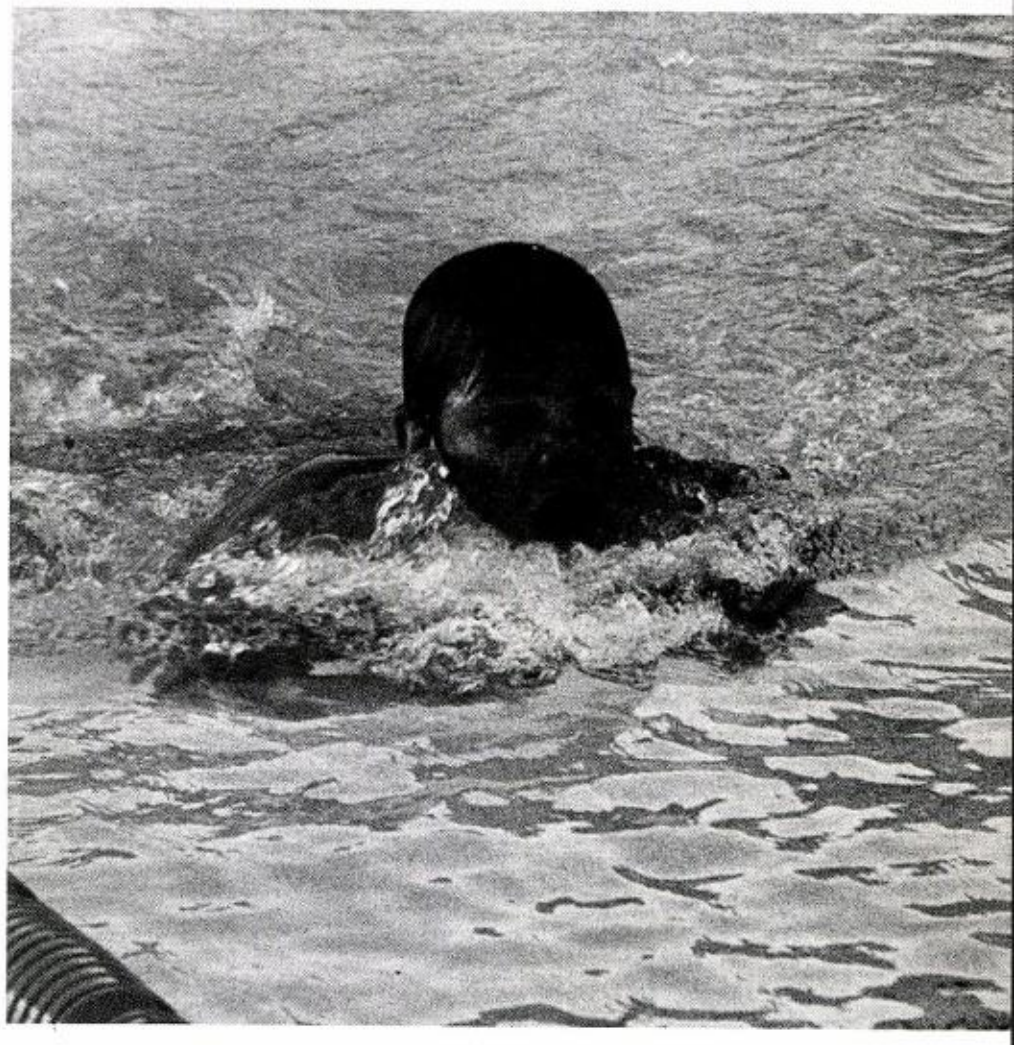
Consequently, he must follow a narrow path in crowded traffic, one demanding discipline, teamwork and a sense of direction.





He could be singing in the student chapel, pasting a picture in the yearbook, playing the trombone or tutoring in Alviso. He is the student who is involved in a campus activity. The activity which is the heart of the bustling intersection of University at Elm has fascinated this student and led him to be part of a group: a staff, a cast, a social work team. He is no longer a child sequestered in a hidden place, rather he is a young man who has chosen to become part of the feverish activity of the intersection.

University at Elm is an intersection with many facets: grades, classrooms, courses, activities, sports and much more. But the classrooms will crumble, the grades will be forgotten and the moment in the footlights lost. But what remains will be beyond worth: the memory of friends, companions, men who shared the journey. The intersection would be worthless, if not for the casual moments spent sauntering across Elm street with a friend. Bellarmine is, most certainly, people.

FOOTBALL

Tim Schmidt

The Bellarmine Varsity Football Team finished the '73 season with a 6-4 overall record under head coach, John Hanna. The highpoint of the season was the tilt against Archbishop Mitty High School at Buck Shaw Stadium, where the Spirit Week came to a crashing end when the Bells lost to the Monarchs. Overall the season's performance was erratic and so was the needed spirit of the student body, which was often absent during most important gridiron battles. Standouts for the Big Blue Machine were All-League Defensive Back, Paul Dinapoli (Defensive Player of the Year); running back, Marty King; all league defensive end, Pete Grassi; and the sensational sophomore middle linebacker, Jim Maher. Voted Most valuable player by his teammates was Bob Selvi, who also received the honors of most valuable lineman in the WCAL and captain of the team. Congratulations to fullback, Gary Spicer, for winning the Billy Schmidt award, tight end Tim Schmidt for tying the Bellarmine touchdown pass reception record with 7 TD catches, when previous to this season he never played contact football, thus stealing the most-improved award and making himself part of the all-league team along with Mike Dahlin and "Wild Bill" Perry, who also was voted most inspirational player by his teammates. Last but not least are the 31 other individual players who did not receive trophies or awards but experienced one more facet of life together as a team. There are 13 players returning from this year's team to suit up in the Blue and White, six of them starters in '74.

The Bellarmine Junior Varsity finished the '73 season with an overall record of 6-3. The Bells charged into the season confidently winning their first five games then falling to Mitty, Serra, and Riordon respectively. Although the record is an achievement in itself, there was a positive atmosphere among the players that is the envy of many teams. This atmosphere is considered the ultimate goal in athletics.

Congratulations go to the defense which allowed an average of less than eight points per game. The offense scored an average of three touchdowns per game.

Mike Bennedetti received the M.V.P. award for his brilliant play. Running back Dean Intersimone was voted most inspirational player. Most improved player honors went to Tom Bordenave. Of course, coaches Larry Lauro and Br. Ryan were at the heart of this inspired team.

"This team is a team of great hitters." The words of first year coach Don Ardissone catch the spirit of the '73 Baby Bells. Though the Bells were smaller than every team they met, they established a four and two record. The Baby Bells scored 140 points while giving up only 32. Perhaps the greatest testimony to this team was their powerful 34 to 12 victory over an excellent St. Ignatius team. The Baby Bells physically over-powered the Cats.

Marc Rebboah turned in a fantastic mark of 1,017 yards rushing in only five games. Marc was named M.V.P. Tom Page, a linebacker, was named Most Inspirational Player. Mike Kerrigan was voted lineman of the year for his excellent offensive and defensive play. Leo Ruth and Don Ardissone provided excellent coaching and guidance for the team.

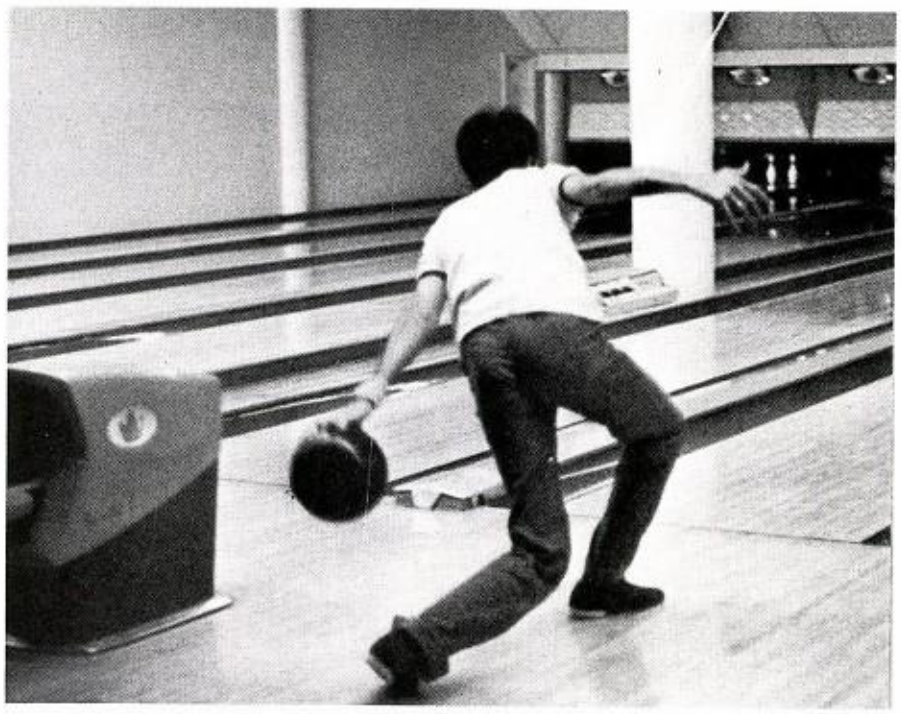
BOWLING



The Bellarmine Bowling Club is a group of students who bowl competitively every Friday after school at Santa Clara University. Teams are organized into groups of eight five man teams. Players with differing capabilities are evenly matched on the teams. Darius Pirzadeh and Jon Everett have organized this group under the direction of Mr. Phelan. The Bowling Club plans to compete against other schools and, although the competition is tough, the bowlers enjoy themselves.

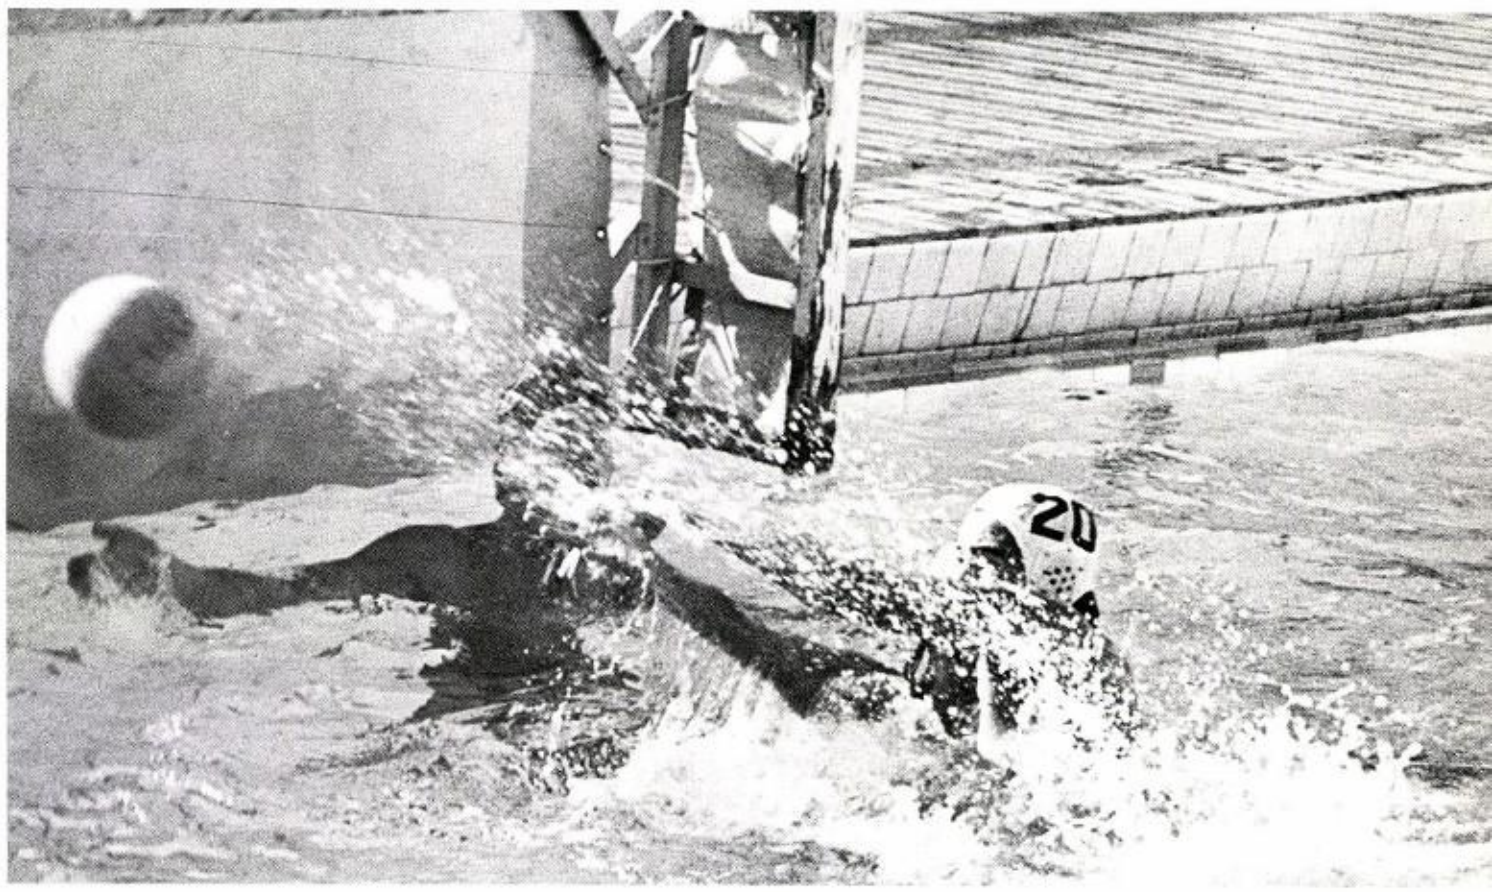
The Bellarmine Varsity Water Polo team, under the coaching of Bruce Watson, underwent a somewhat dismal season in what has proven to be one of the school's most successful sports. With no returning lettermen from last year's nationally ranked team, the Bells watched their high hopes dwindle to a disappointing record of four wins and thirteen defeats.

The highlight of the season was a six to four victory by the Bells over previously unbeaten SPAL champions Leland High.

Consistent scoring came from Ken Favaro, Terry Reding and Drew Levinson. Mike Fitzsimmons was awarded team captain, Most Valuable Player was Ken Favaro. Dave Kitts received the Most Improved Player award and Jim Favaro was awarded the Billie Schmidt award.



The Frosh-Soph water polo team overcame key injuries, and wound up a respectable season. Playing well during the regular season the Frosh-Soph team was invited to play in the N.C.I. tournament.

Despite the loss of injury ridden team leader Tom Nicolaysen, the Bells came away with a 2-2 record against the best teams in Northern California.

Consistent scoring came from Nicolaysen and Kevin Thene, and a superb effort was also put forward by goalie Greg Blaine. The team finished off the season with an overall 6-4 record.

CROSS COUNTRY

The Bellarmine Cross Country team entered the season with high hopes. Five top runners of the previous year were expected to return. However, three of these five did not run. Senior Ralph Paredes, Juniors Dan Greaney, Jim Fitzhenry and Bob Navarrete, and Sophomore Larry Good tried to take up the slack, but they could only win a disappointing fifth place. Perhaps the brightest point for Bell Cross Country this year was the second place frosh team. The frosh were led by Robert Flores, and Chris Schenone.

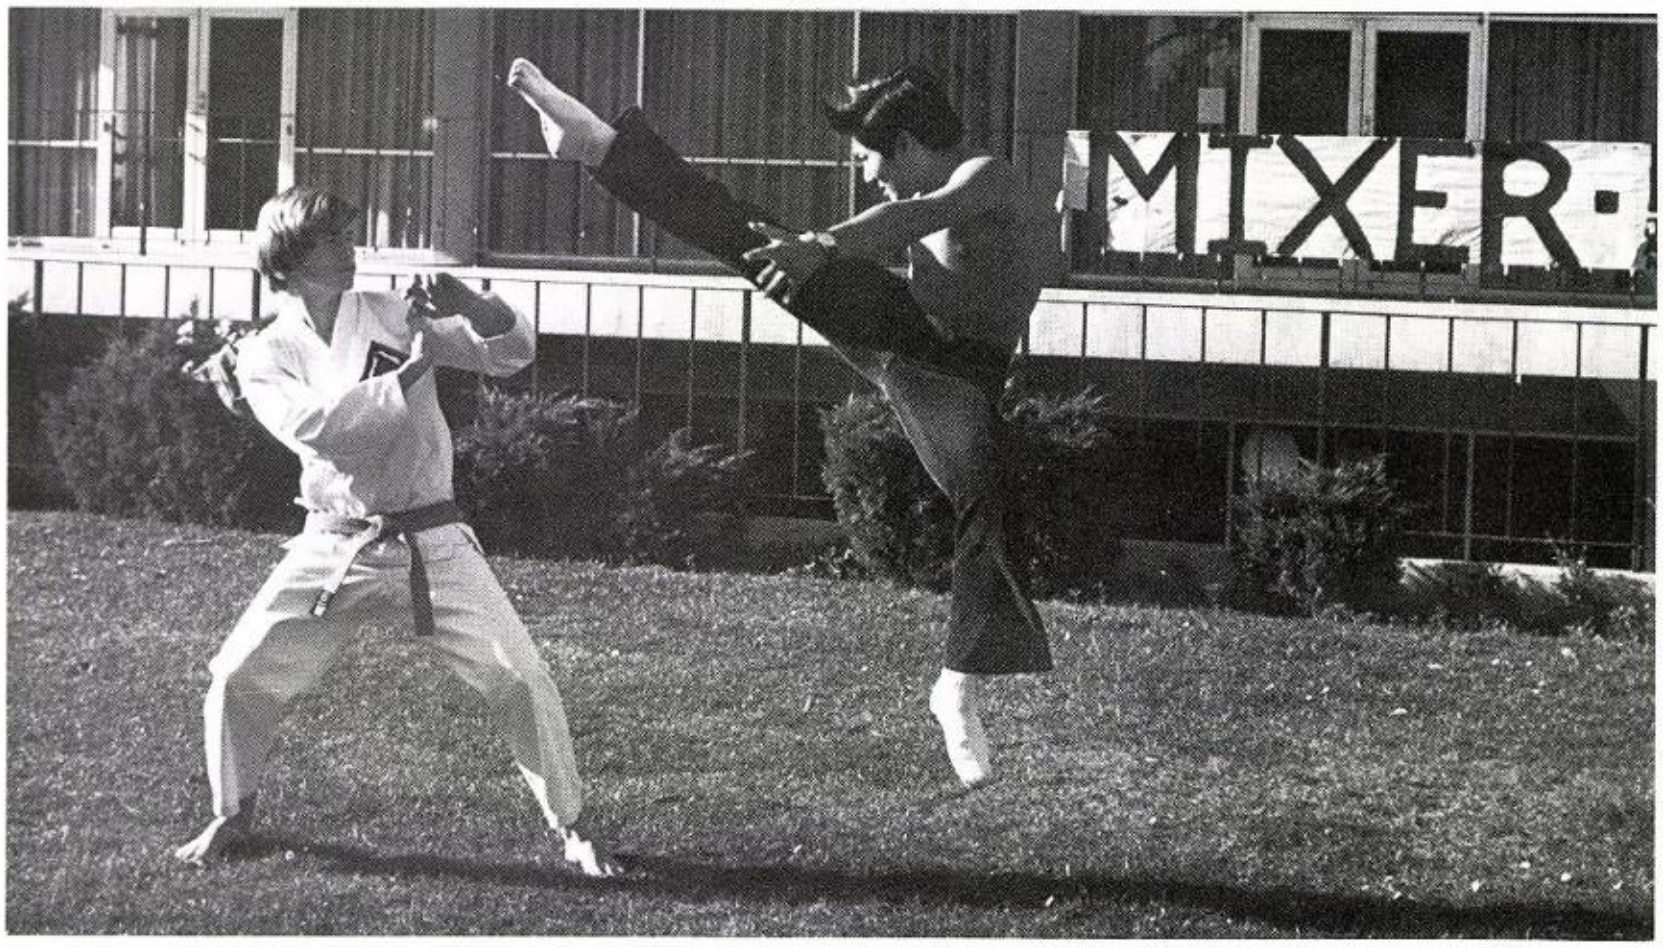
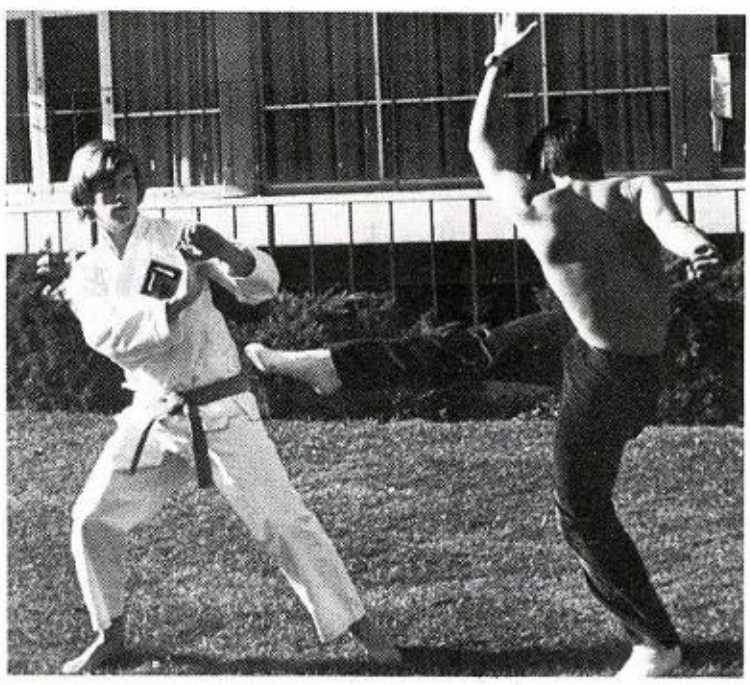
MARTIAL ARTS





The Bellarmine Martial Arts program is a class in Karate and Kung Fu. Kempo and Go Ju Kai Karate is taught by sophomores Kirk Mossing and Pete Ostner. Although the students' training entails how to kill, the skills learned are to be used only as a last resort when attacked; verbal abuse must be ignored by the student of Karate. Kung Fu, which is a more subtle and flowing form of self-defense than Karate, requires very little physical strength, but a great deal of concentration and practice to perfect. The Martial Arts Class begins each session with a period of meditation and exercise. This is to relax the student to leave the class with the knowledge that he need not be hostile, and when there is no other possible alternative to hostility, he will be prepared to cope with the situation.

This year's Bell varsity was plagued by sickness and injury. In spite of these drawbacks, the Bells managed a 6-18 overall record. John Mahaney, Tim Schmitt and Ray Fellows, although ill, were outstanding. Juniors Steve Page, Tom Griffin, Brian Laney and Louis Williams also played very well. This year varsity had begun the season with very little experience, but wound up with a great deal of experience, and next years outlook is a good one. Special recognition is due to coach Chris Dempsey for the time and effort which he put into coaching his team.

The Bell JV team compiled one of the school's longest winning and longest losing streaks. They finished the season with an overall 7-14 record. All the wins were scored consecutively. The long string of losses were due to three key players being moved up to varsity. Although the team underwent a disappointing season, this year, the outlook for next year's players is very good. Special mention is due to first year Coach Hank Weske.

The '74 Bell Soccer Team achieved their best win-loss record to date. Their efforts gained them a berth in the WCAL playoffs. Injuries, though, forced the Bells into an uphill battle in their division. Defense contributed a major part in the team's success. Mark Dewhirst controlled the defense which registered numerous shutouts. The offense was led by Joe Giansircusa. Soccer looks promising next year because only five seniors will be leaving this year.

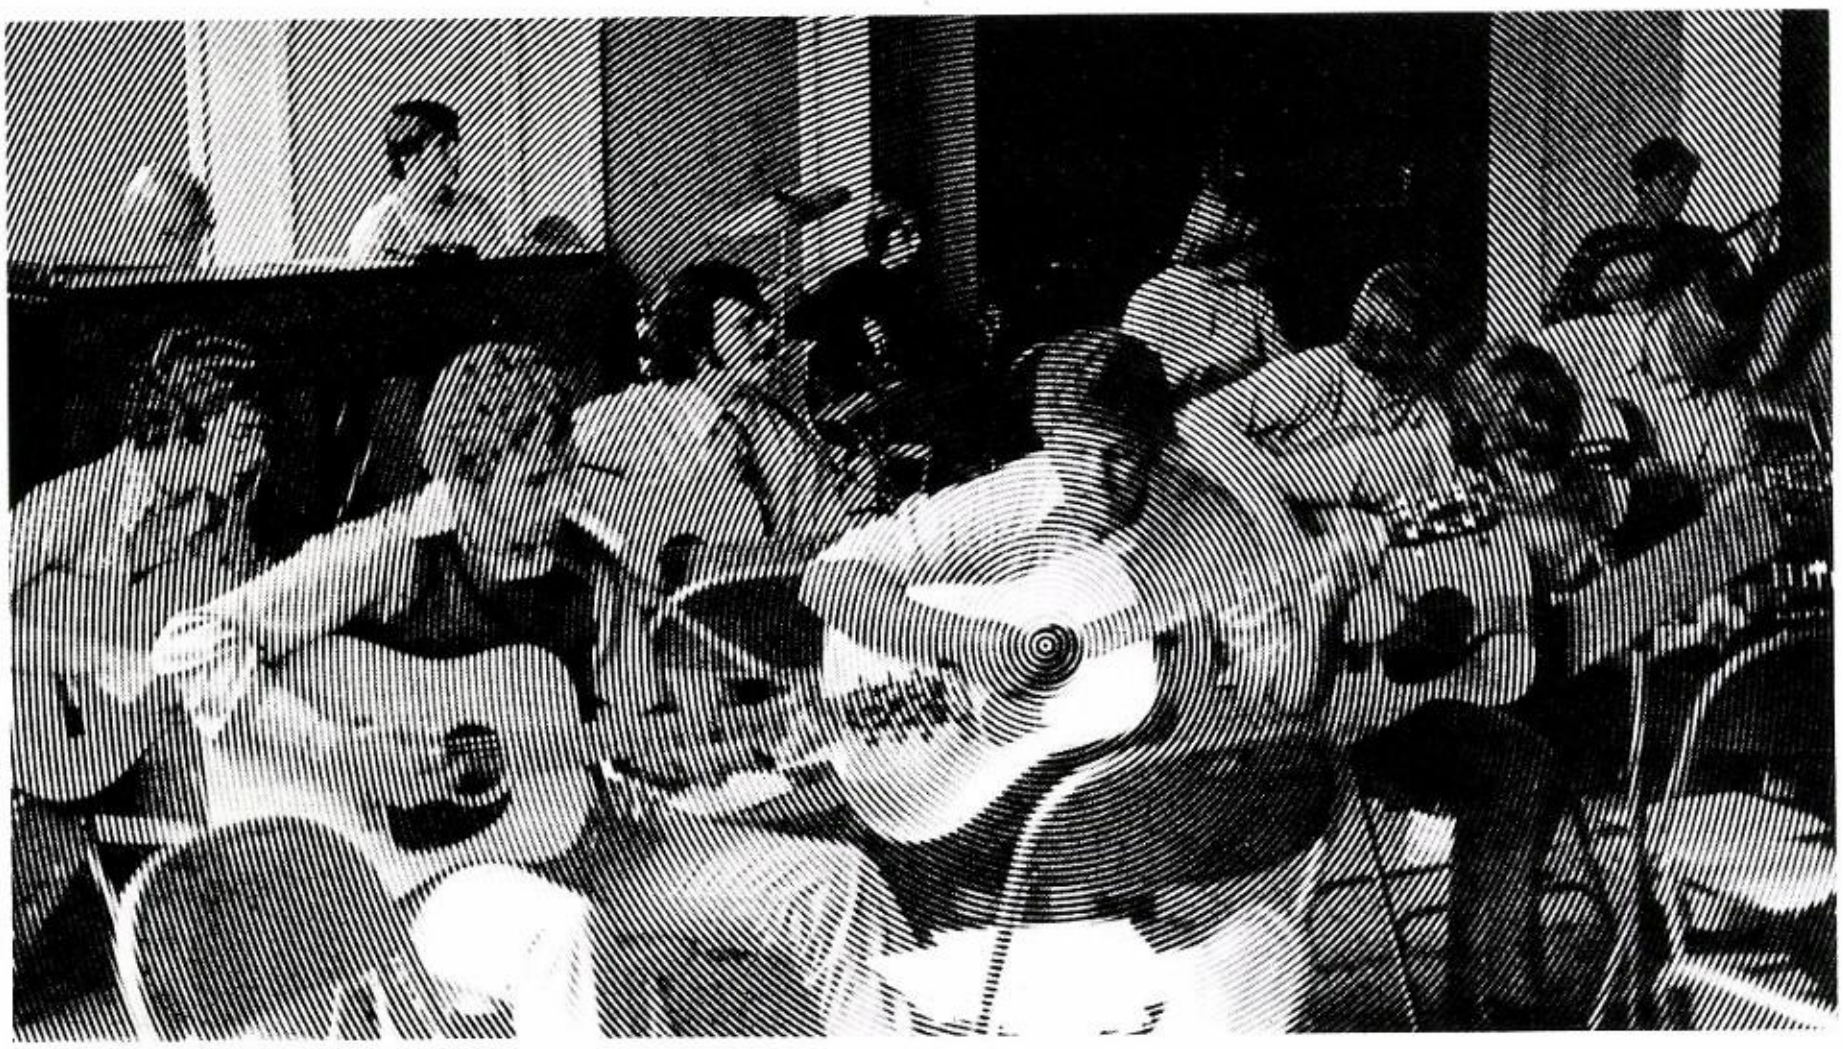
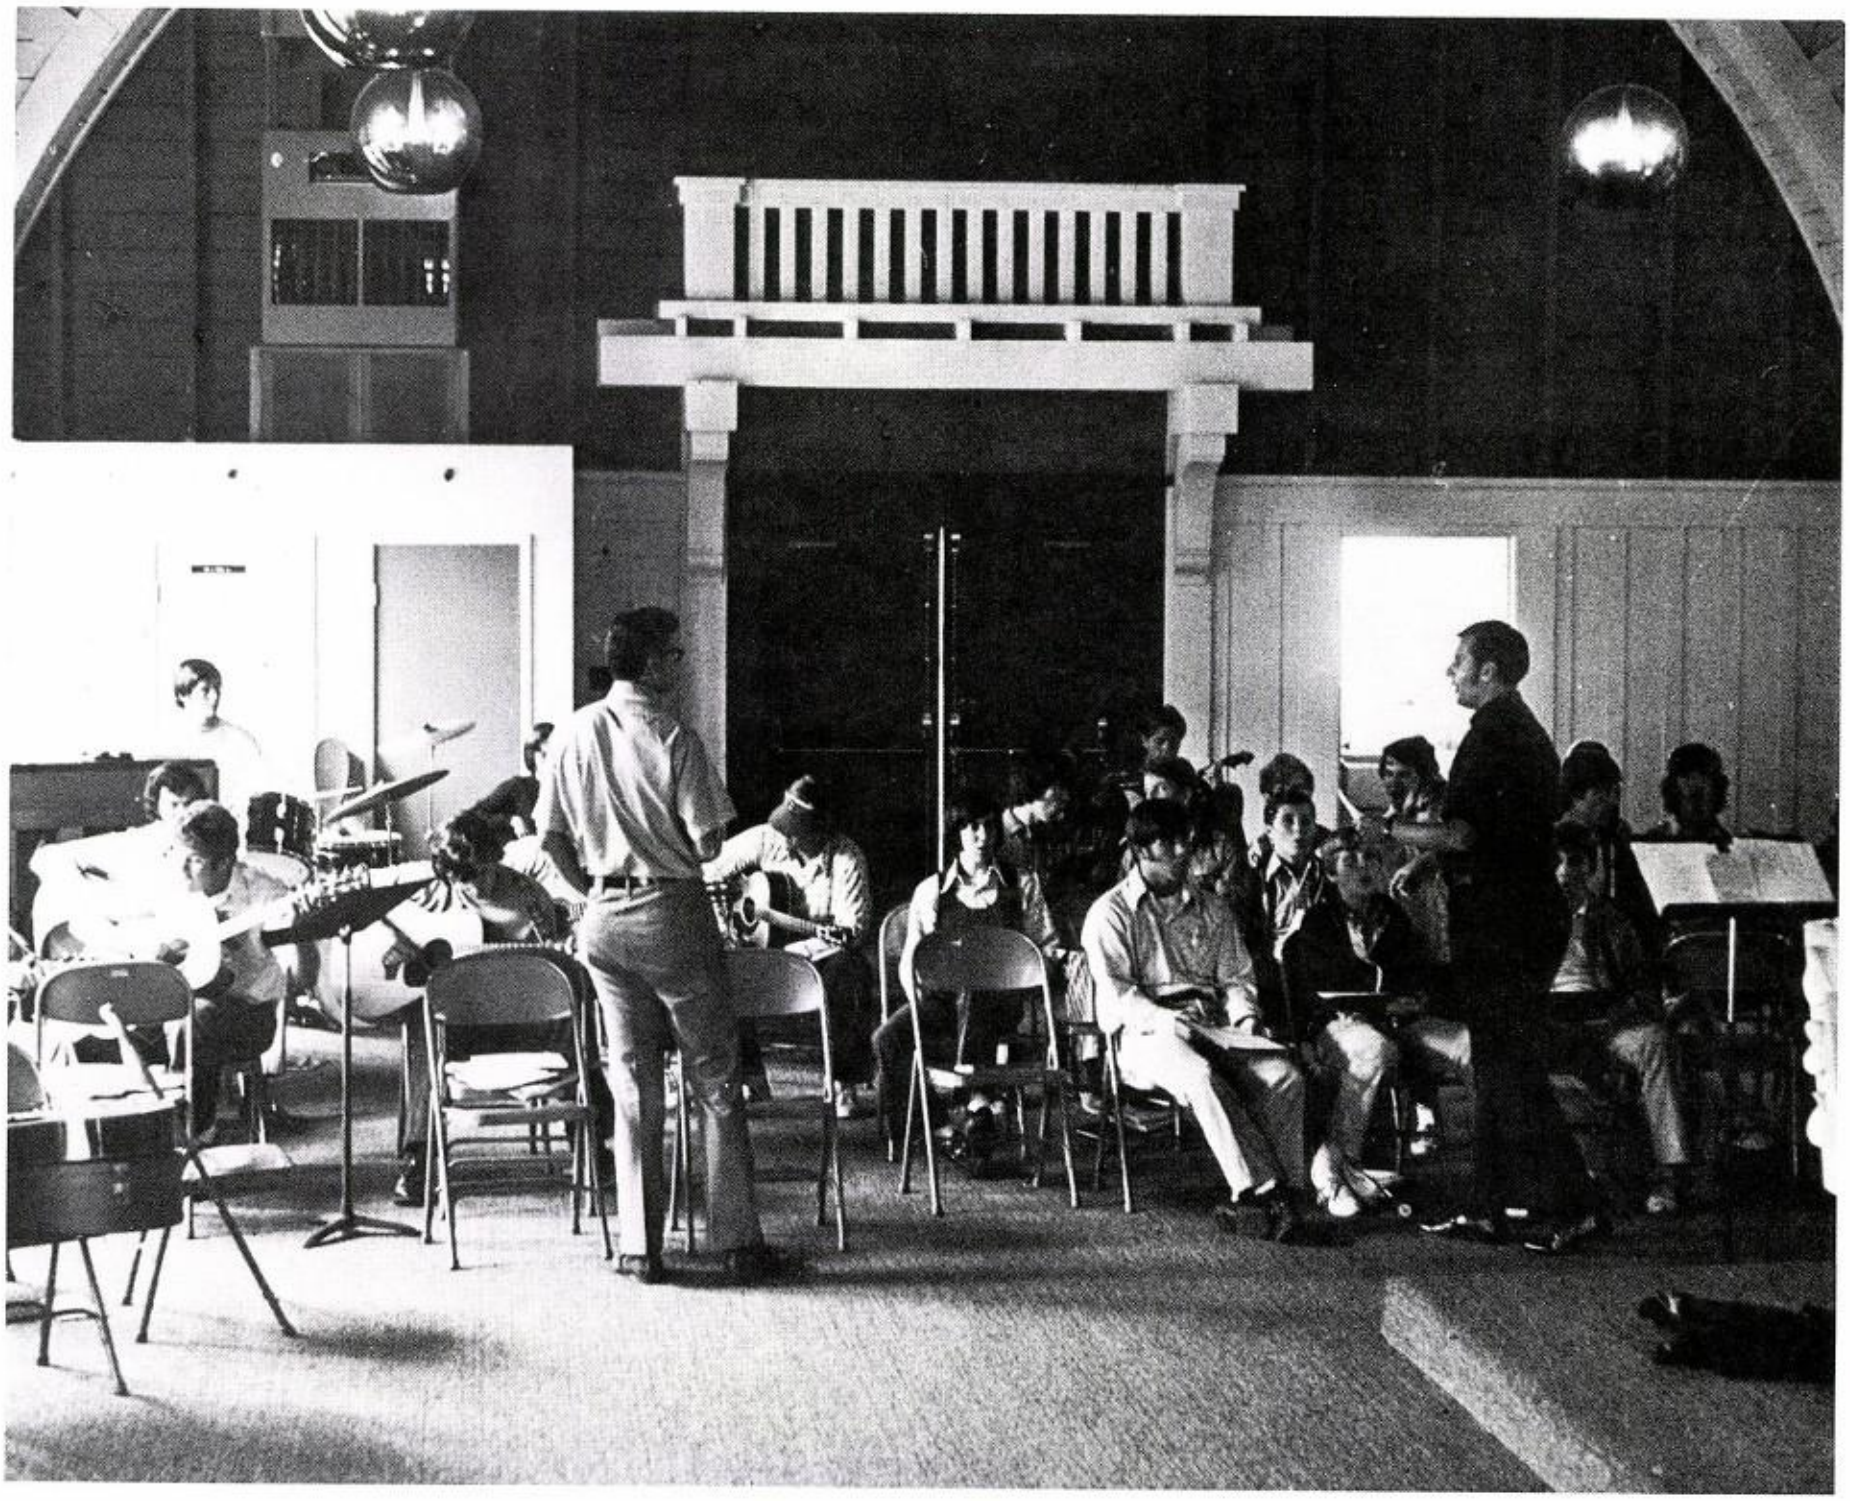
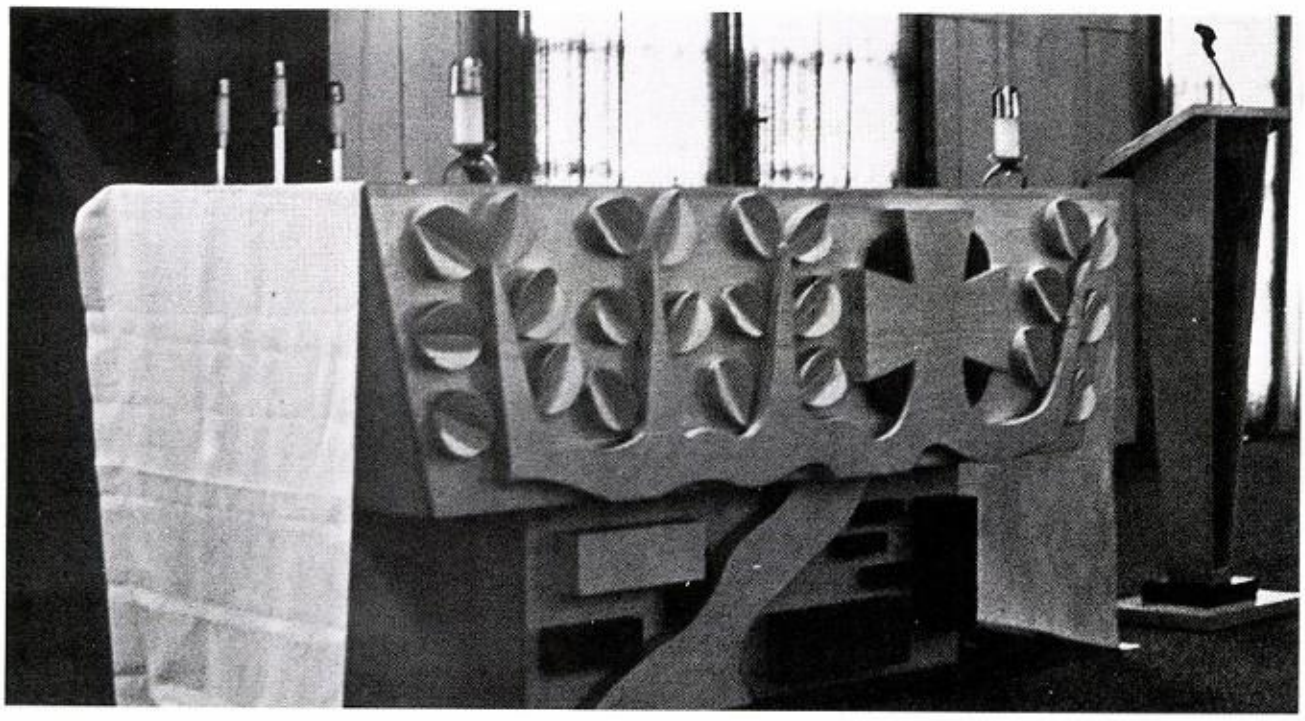
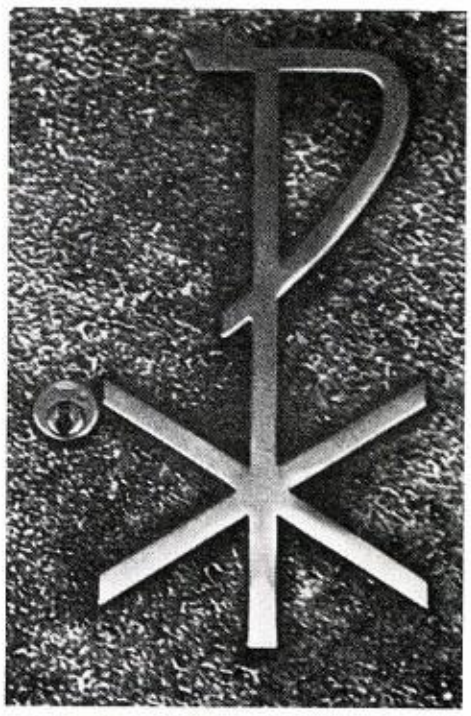
Religion

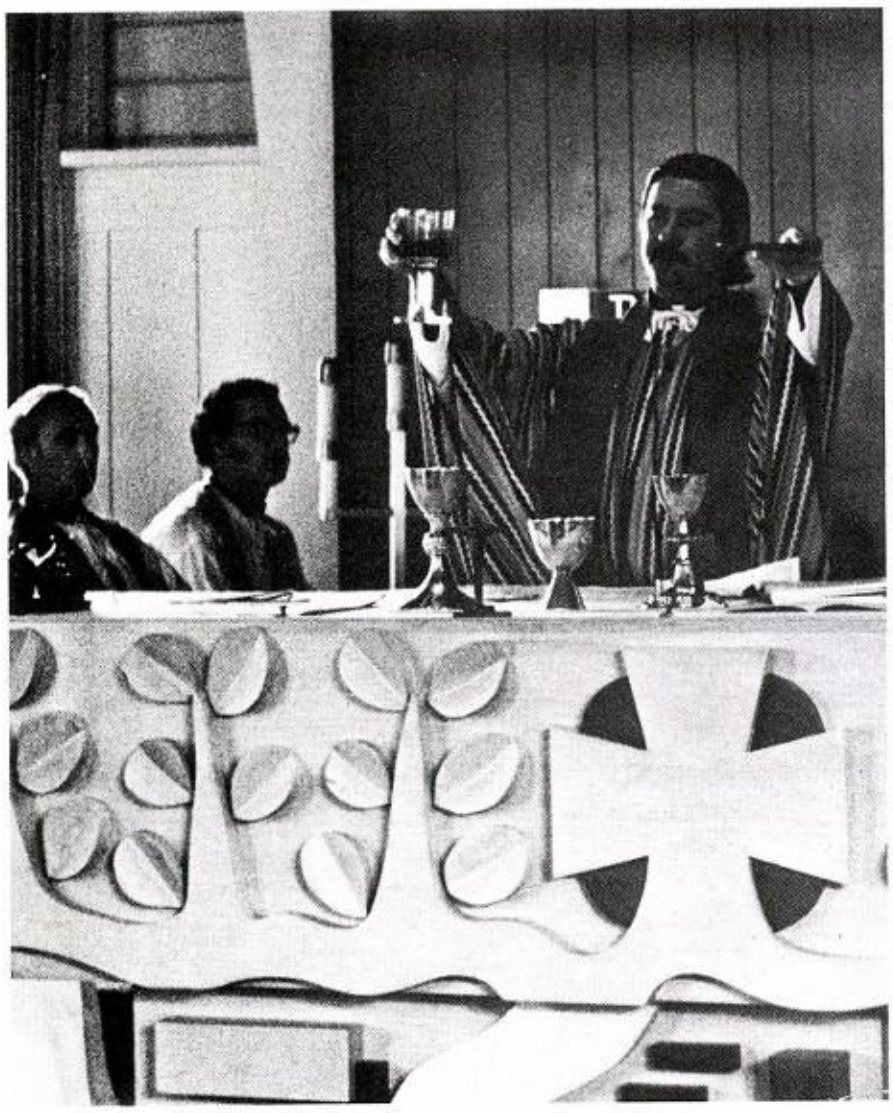


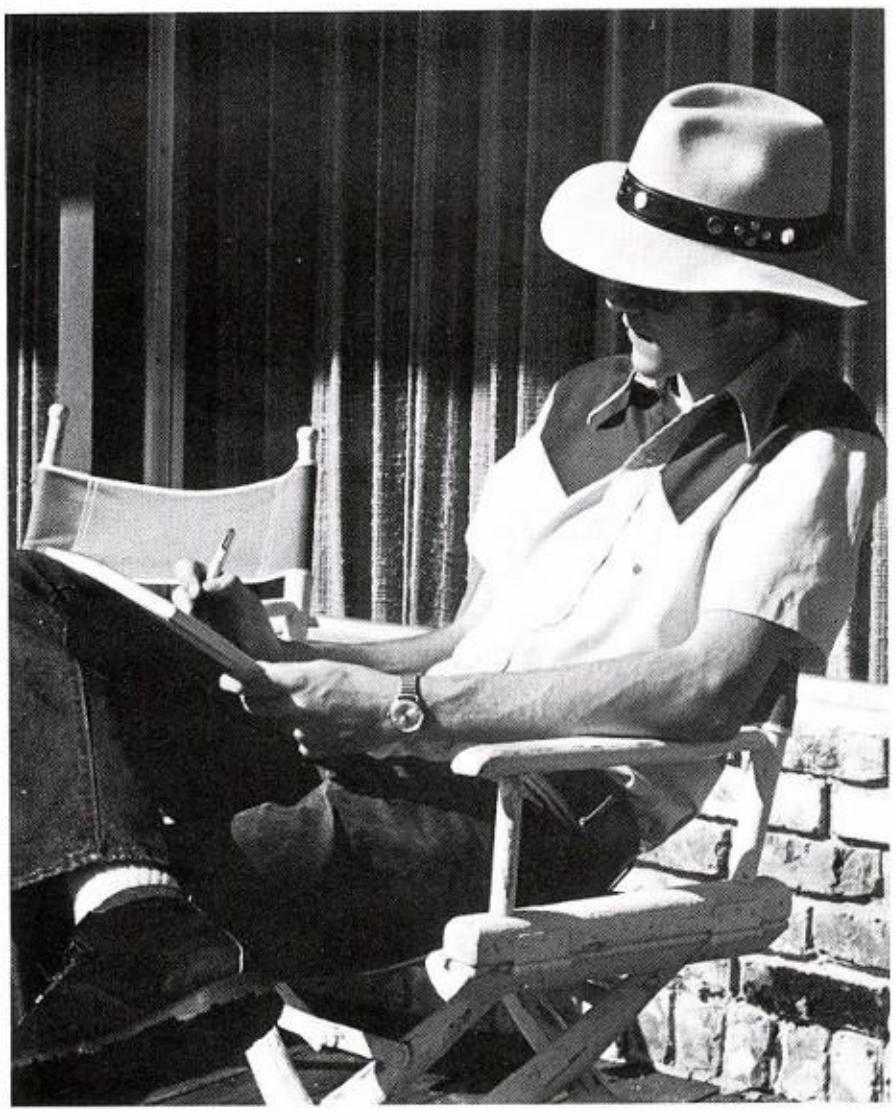
The direction of religion activities and instruction this year has been to provide for the student an atmosphere in which acceptance of Christian values, rather than dogmatic principles, can be facilitated. This acceptance of Christianity was to have been experienced through the person of Jesus Christ, both directly and through the many religious activities at Bellarmine. Union with Christ has been made possible by means of retreats and exposure to the liturgy. These two experiences provided for both a personal and communal involvement with Christ in the student's life. Such an experience provided both a challenge and a re-affirmation of an individual's faith in the living God.

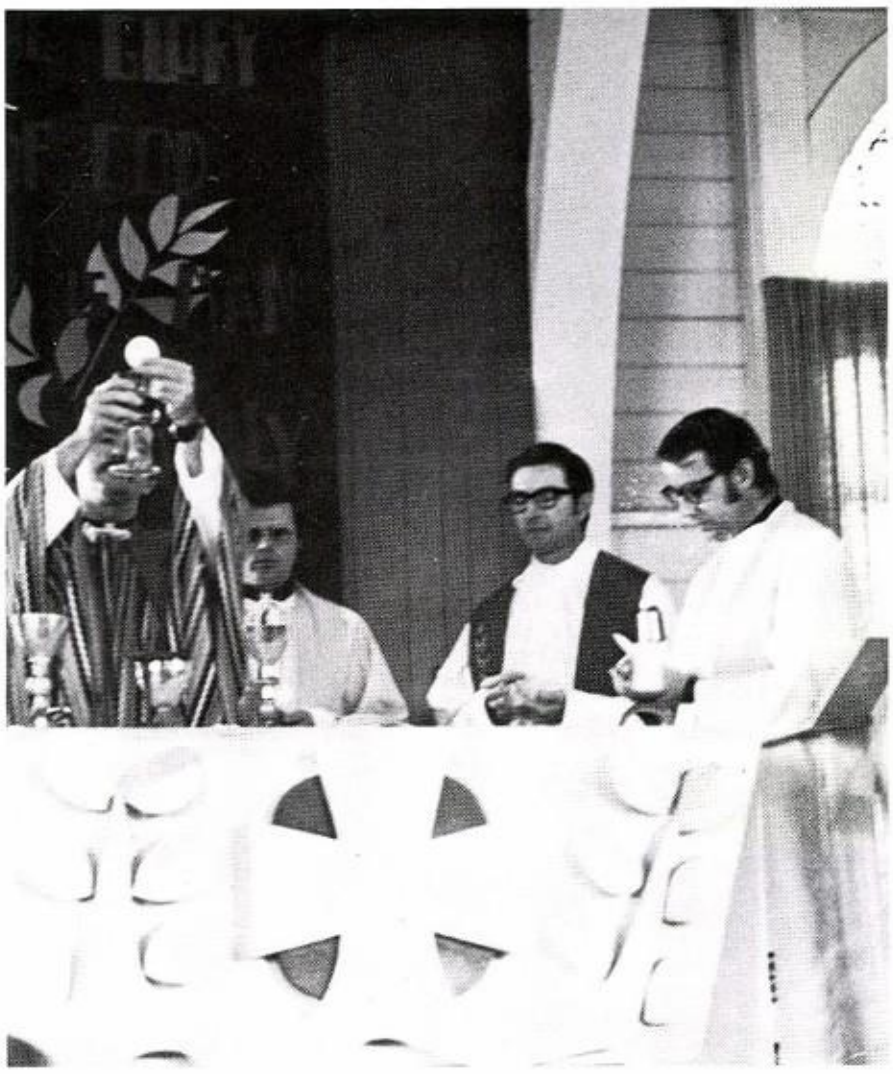


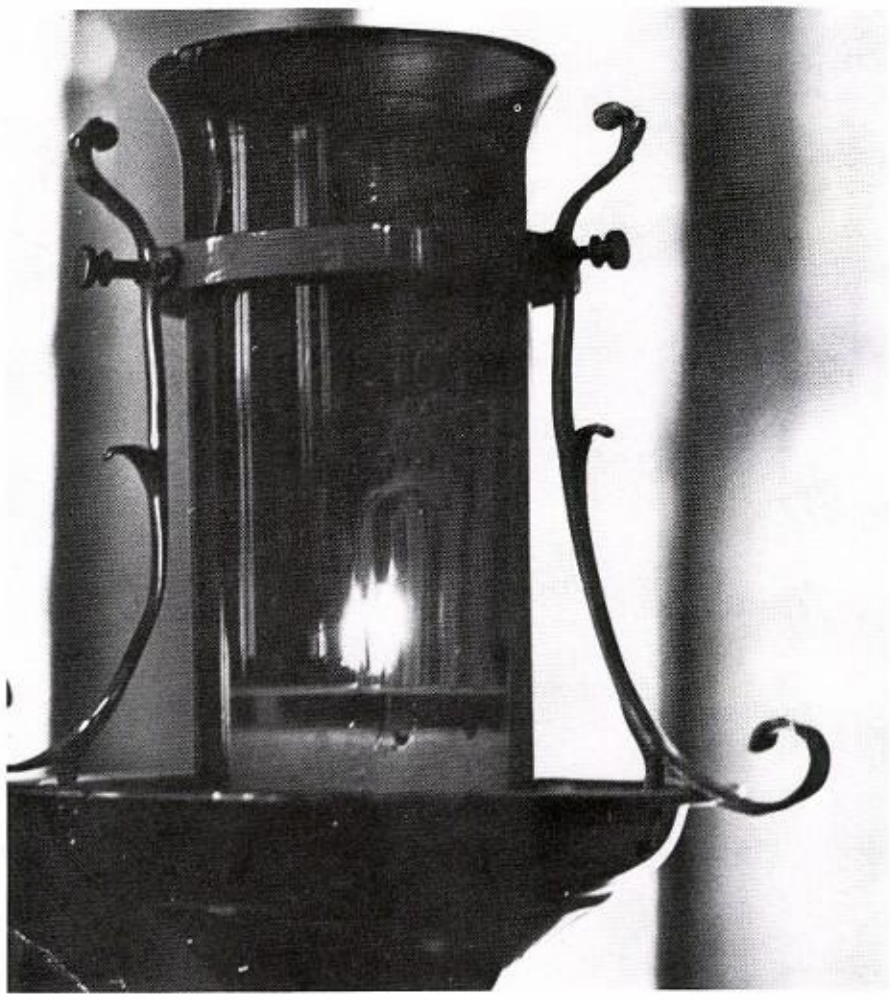












RUSS ROIDE S.J.

Fr. Russ Roide, S.J. is not only a religion teacher, but director of campus ministry, head of the Theology Department, coordinator for the Bellarmine Retreat Program, and leader of the Creative Worship Seminar. With all this involvement in what would be considered the most difficult of all jobs, the presentation of Christian life and values to the American high-schooler, Fr. Roide has invigorated the Bellarmine Community with positive leadership and firm presentation of the meaning of life in Christ.

Continuously, Fr. Roide has attempted to place at the center of the consciousness of the Bellarmine students the freedom and consequent responsibility of Christian life. To the same extent, Fr. Roide will succeed in his effort to inform Bellarmine of the horizons of Christianity. To the degree that he is successful, the raison d'etre of Bellarmine will be fulfilled. For in his role as director of campus ministry, Fr. Roide's success represents the fulfillment of the hopes of the Bellarmine Faculty and Administration.

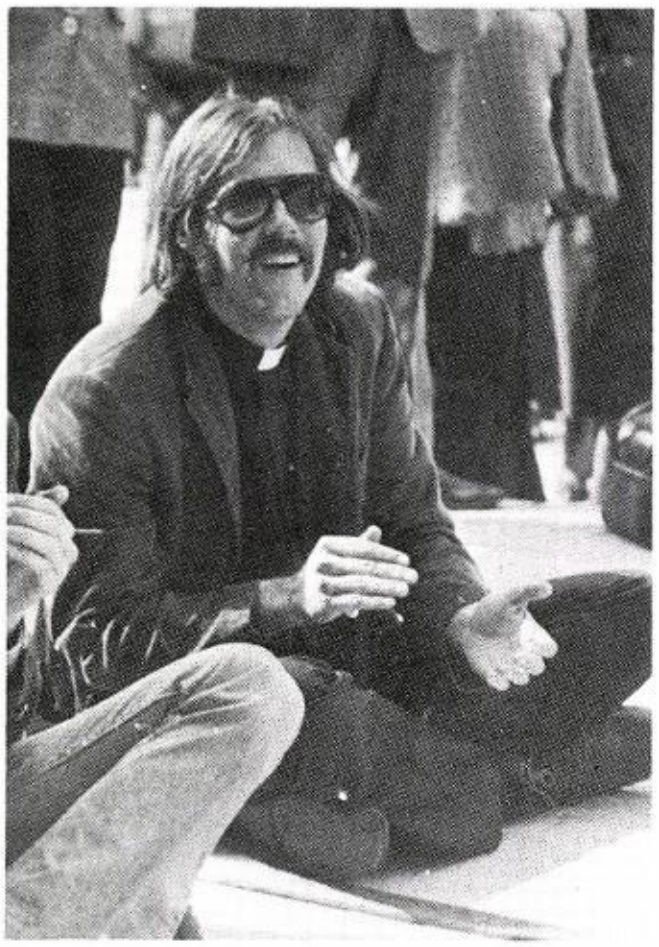
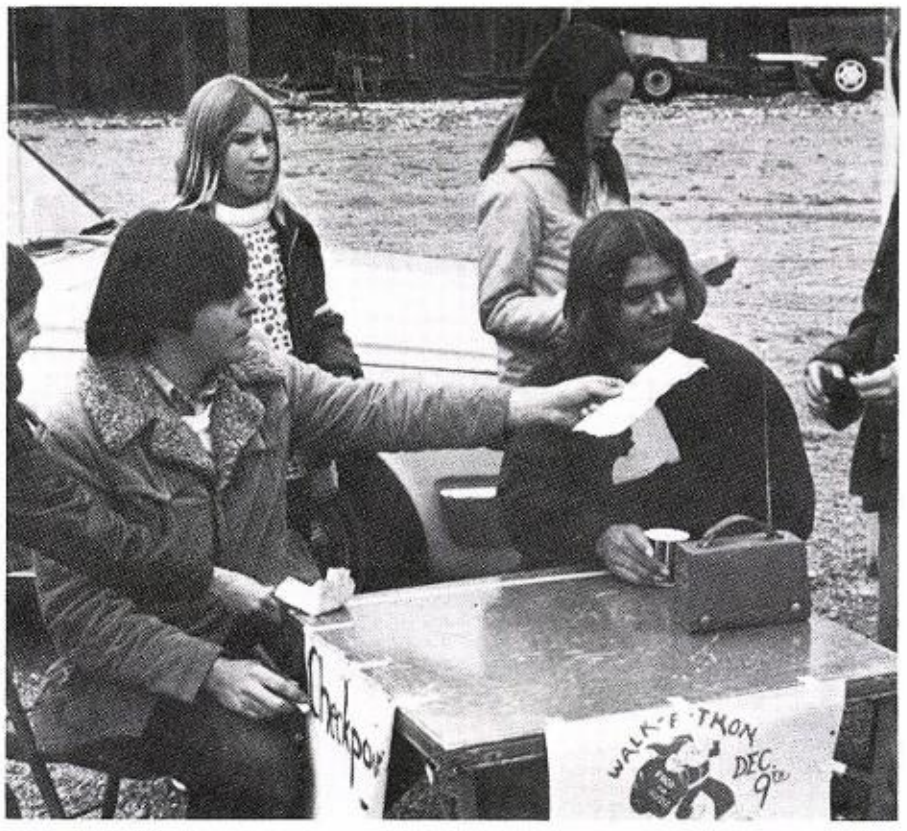
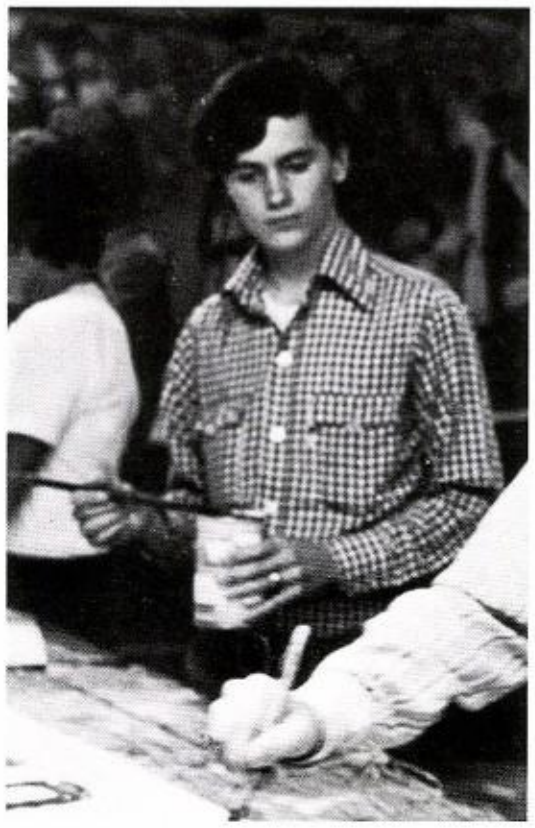
Mike Kennedy

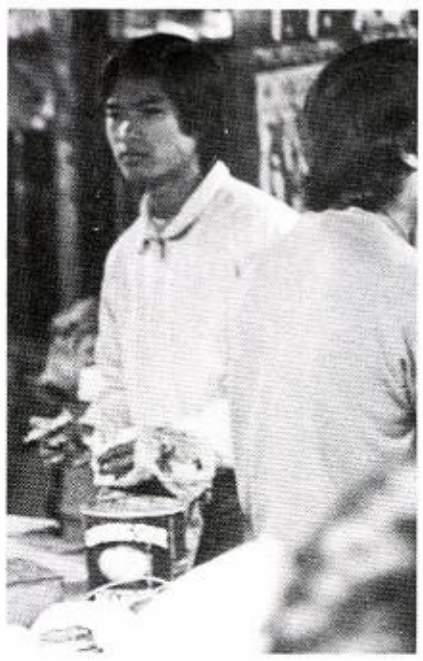


For two years Mike Kennedy S.J has been the dynamic force behind the SIC. Mike leaves Bellarmine this year, but he leaves a legacy of hard work and devotion to the cause of helping less fortunate people. Mike Kennedy, though, isn't only responsible for the success of the SIC.

An enormous student response to the needs of others made this program a success, Tom St. Pierre and his crew have worked at Chandleer Tripp, Karl Schnider and Steve Swenson tutored at McKinnon School. Dave Tennant, Jim Lyons, Gerry Grossman and many others tutored at Trace and Hester. Other people worked at a local old-folks home. Tim Kemper, Emory Adoradio and Joe Orlando headed a program helping families whose parents are in jail, Friends Outside. Students involved in Share headed by Bill Lauer, ventured into the homes of grammar school students to help them in school work. Tony Mendoza, Joe Giacaclone and Bob Kretzmer worked at Contact. Presentation, Notre Dame and Bellarmine students participated in the Agnew State Hospital program. Many less fortunate people in Alviso appreciated the efforts of Jim Stewart and Bill Lauer, organizers of the Clothing Drive. A very successful Food Drive, headed by John Pope and Dave Riparbelli, netted $3000. Peter Boscacci saw that the Walk-A-Thon was a success in helping to raise money. The SIC has provided Bellarmine students with an opportunity to do a great deal of good in their community.







SAC

This year's SAC had the misfortune of a protest against their choosing of members. When the dust settled, the SAC walked away with an overabundance of members, who, as the situation turned out, weren't as willing to work as they had said they'd be. The SAC survived though, and the remaining members worked hard under the leadership of Larry Wiseman and Emery Adoradio, Wiseman's right hand man. Spirit evoking signs decorated the corridors once again.

NFL

The NFL had the largest number of debators in Bellarmine's history. Outstanding performances were turned in by many members of the NFL in various events. In oratory, a speech delivered to persuade or convince an audience, Jim Wagstaffe was consistently impressive. In the interpretive category, in which debators speak on three manuscripts relating to the same topic, Ray Wagstaffe was excellent. Bill Howard and Chris White were outstanding in humorous and dramatic interpretations, memorized ten minute presentations. In extemporaneous events, ten seven minute presentations, Pierre Kirch, Jay Virts, and Steve Fama were the most talented speakers. Impromptu, a speech off the top of your head, Bellarmine debator Glen McDonald was outstanding.

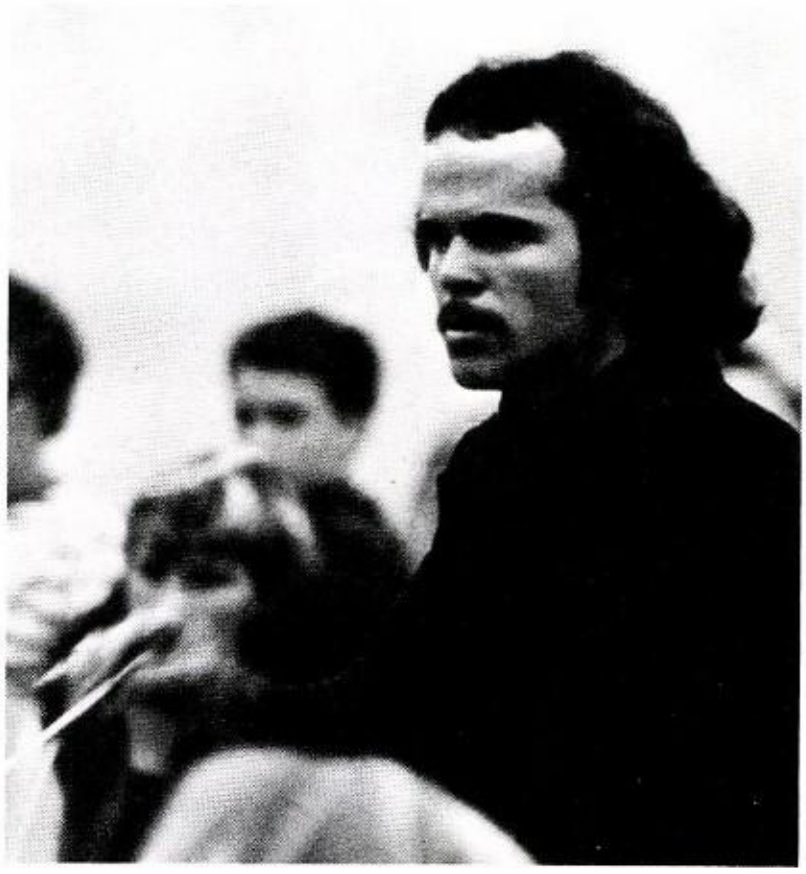
director Hickey



The Bellarmine Band has undergone a transformation. From a slipshod, unorganized group of fifteen students the band has slowly developed into a talented, disciplined group of twenty-five musicians. This transformation has been achieved under the direction of Mr. Hickey, a demanding leader, who expresses an interest in his students as individuals as well as musicians. He feels that music is an extension of one's personality, and that it is his job to aid in the development of the individuals in the band. Now, Band has been established as a substantial program at Bellarmine. The Band has played at numerous games and rallys, at Juvenile Hall, the Christmas Ball, at the boarders Christmas dinner-party and in the Valley Fair Mall.

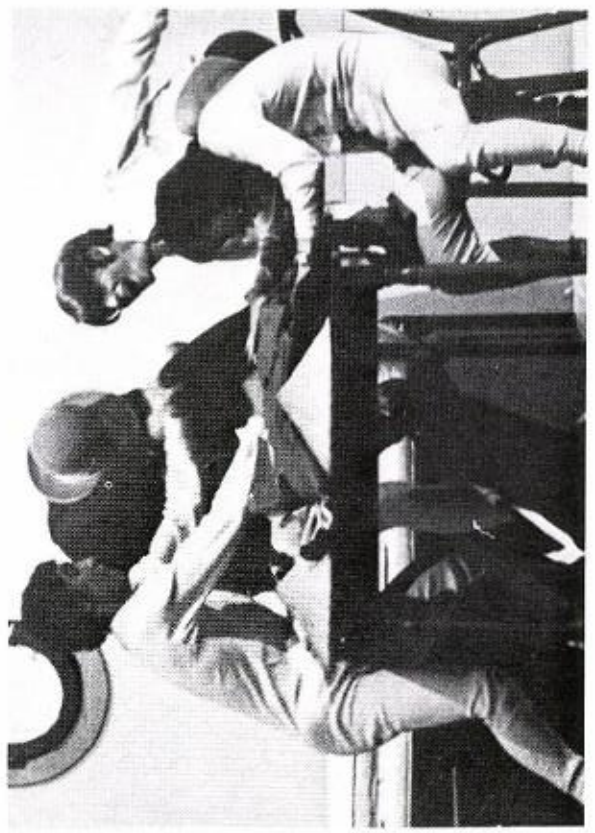
BELLARMINE THEATRE GUILD

The doors of the Liccardo Little Theatre opened. Displaying their tickets, the students and parents entered and were seated. Voices clamored and hands gestured as the audience anxiously awaited the start of the performance. A dim but resplendent light gradually revealed a court-room setting. Three gray-haired uniformed actors majestically entered and took seats behind an imposing judge's bench. A contingent of court attendants, lawyers and assistants soon followed. Almost perfunctorily, one judge reached for his gavel, banged it against the table's wooden surface and called the court to order. THE ANDERSONVILLE TRIAL had begun.

Examining the conflict of duty versus conscience, THE ANDERSONVILLE TRIAL painted the story of a Civil War prison commander who cruelly mistreated prisoners. William Reilley and Frank Passafiume, portraying the two opposing attorneys admirably conveyed this tension. An effective supporting cast, spearheaded by Ray Wagstaffe and directed by Josh Stickney and Ed Romano, coupled with a realistic setting, effectively depicted the story.

ANYTHING



GOES

ANYTHING GOES is the musical story of an Ocean liner and the intriguing hilarious series of uproarious events and amorous escapades which occur en route to London. Bill Spence portrays the young stowaway sailor, Billy Crocker, who is in love with Hope Harcourt, played by Lisa Lindberg. Hope, in turn, gets engaged to Sir Evelyn Oakleigh, an eccentric Englishman who is portrayed in an outstanding manner by Chris White.

Sir Oakfeild, however, falls in love with Reno Sweeney (Maxine Chicione) who is the leader of a group of evangelists, all female and "cursed with sex appeal." Also on the cruise is public enemy number thirteen, Moon, a hoodlum who all but steals the show (Mike Speakman). Jim Reily portrays a drunk bishop while Frank Passafumie and Dave DeRose posed as newsman and sailors. Bonnie, the spirted young girl who charms all the sailors is played by Donna San Filippo. Regrettably, space does not allow for mention of all the cast, who performed very well. The success of ANYTHING GOES was due to the fine acting and the well organized crew of mechanics and technicians directed by Derek Granath. The staging of the musical was effective in setting the mood for the scene as a result of the crew's discipline and hard work. The musical's success is most certainly due to the fine direction and production of Ms. Walsh and her crew, Richard Allen, the music coordinator, Janie Allen in charge of Choreography, Jamie Evans who served as technical director, Katie Robins did an excellent job in providing costumes for the cast, and Francisco Andrade handled the publicity and the tickets. The directors and their talent organization and bringing out the most from their actors aided greatly in adding to character and enjoyment to the learning process of acting.

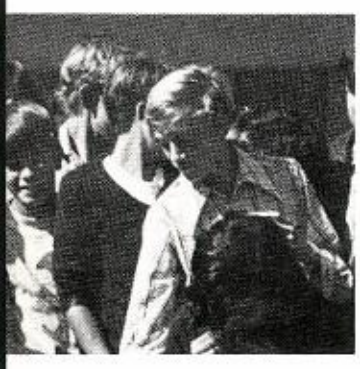
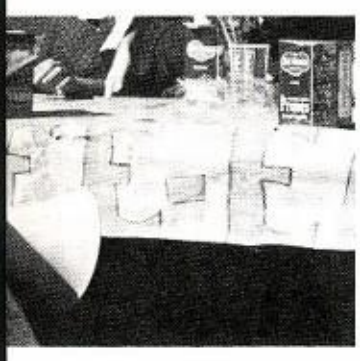
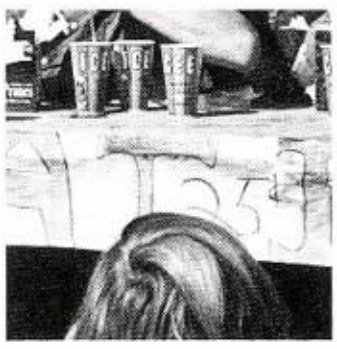
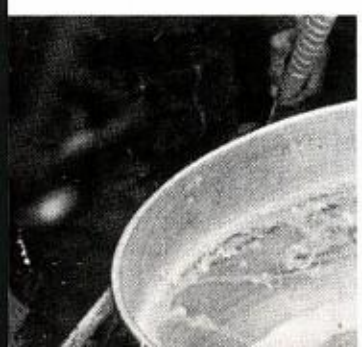
SPIRIT WEEK '73









This year, Spirit Week and its air of aggressiveness were followed by an unsuccessful effort on the part of the Bells to win the Mitty game. However, though the game was disappointing, spirit was high throughout the week of carnival-like atmosphere.

The week was highlighted by an egg-drop, a tricycle race, a prune and Slurpee eating contest and a student-faculty Water Polo game. Spirit Week concluded with a superb performance by the Bellarmine Kazoo Band during half-time of the big game. The purpose of Spirit Week was to have fun. Jim Wagstaffe and his crew facilitated the fun with ingenious games and contests. All in all, Spirit Week '73 was a success because a good time was had by all.

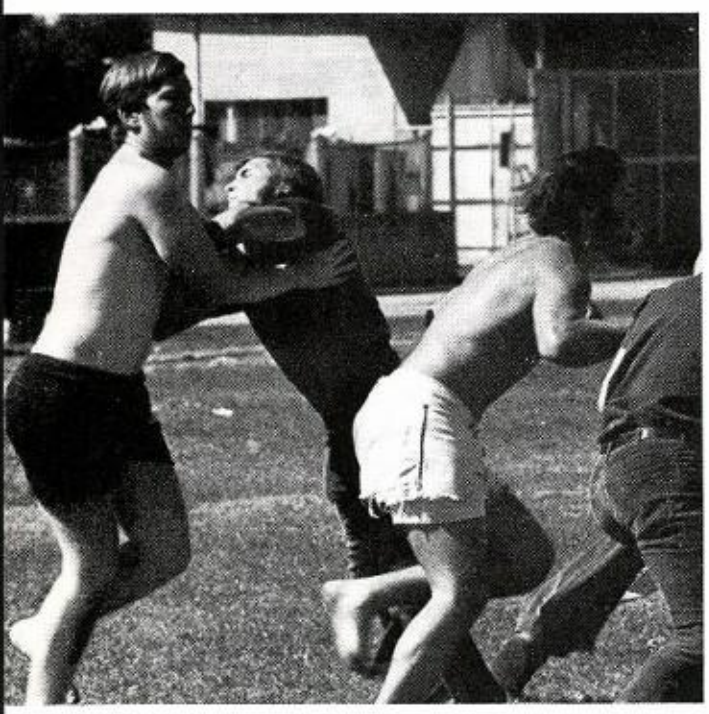
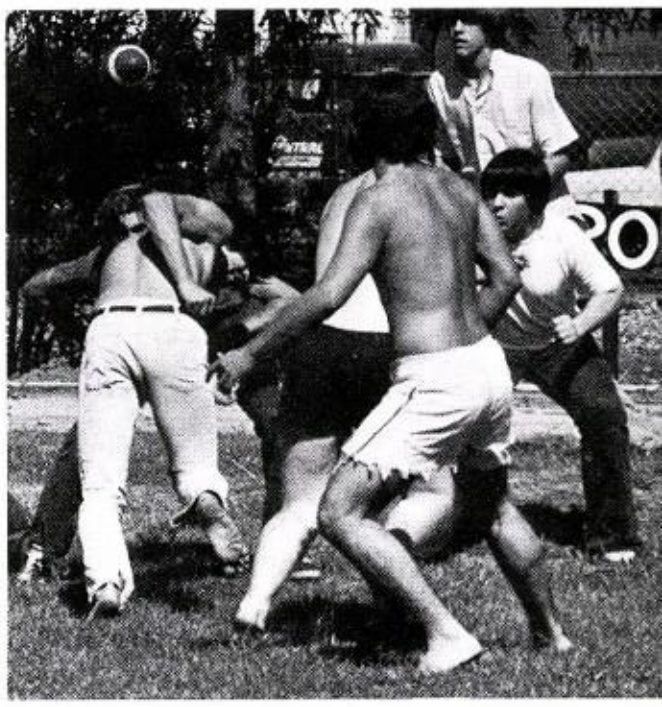
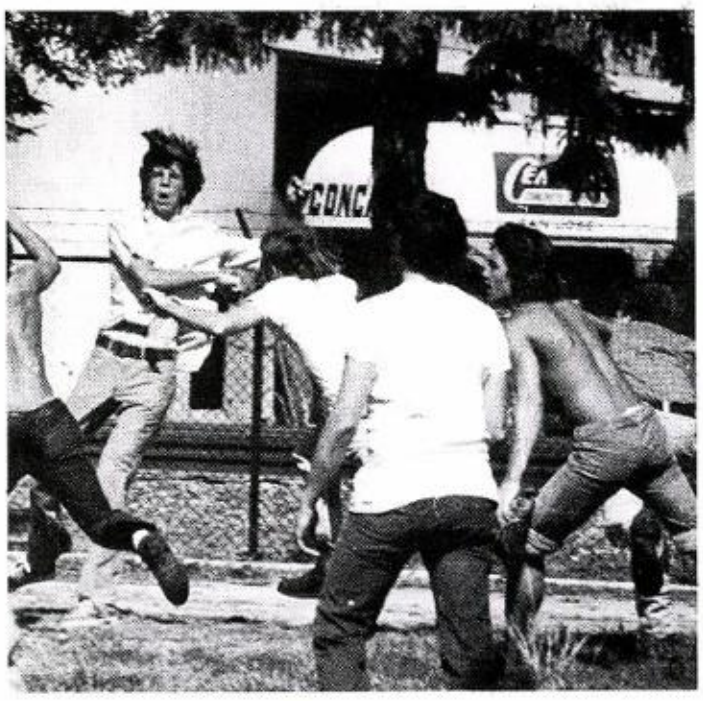
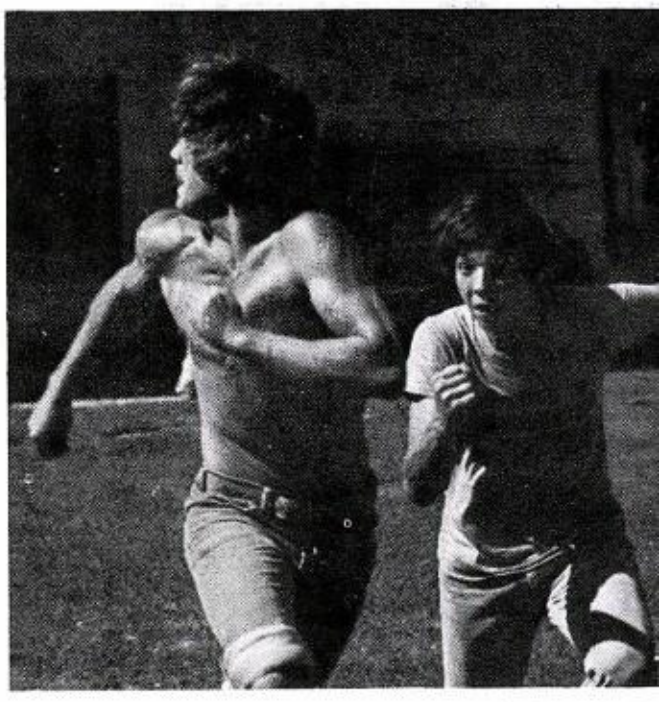
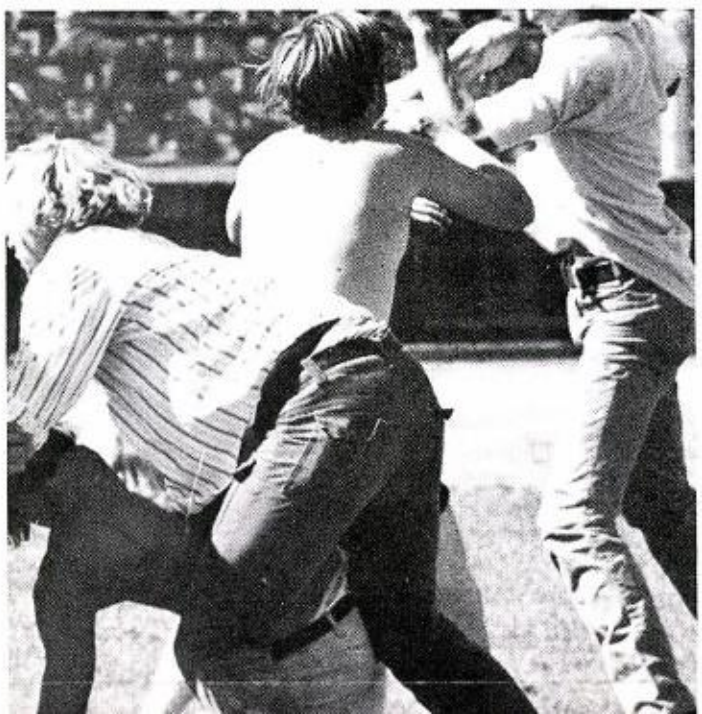
INTRAMURALS











Intramurals 73-74 were marked by aggressive competition, great student response and competent organization. Numerous teams participated in touch football, basketball, and softball. SPECIAL RECOGNITION Virginia Campisi and Alice Hayes deserve special recognition. Virginia Campisi has operated the switchboard and acted as secretary for the treasurer for twenty-five years. Alice Hayes retired this year after seventeen years as secretary to the president. The Carillon salutes Virginia Campisi and hopes Virginia will be with Bellarmine for many years to come. And, finally, the Carillon '74 thanks Alice Hayes for seventeen years of gracious service to Bellarmine.

mr. ardissone

Mr. Ardissone is a real pisan, he talks with his hands. He's the only teacher at Bellarmine who spends his weekends ropin' heifers on a ranch. Ain't that raht, Ferd?

MR. BLAETTLER

I've known Mr. Blaettler for four years now. In that four years he has been my teacher and counselor. More than that, he's been a good friend. Dan was someone who would be there and listen. He would help any way he could. High school would really be a pain if there were not people like Dan around.

fr. BUSH

Fr. Bush is always shifting gears. He has a gentle voice but he is willing to tell it like it is. When he talks about abortion, he's in the dilemma of trying to express a beautiful reality, birth, in terms of the gross crime against it.

I am in his non-violence seminar. It's strange--there seems to be an almost violent force driving him constantly, a force which he controls with a smile and a laugh.

fr.capitolo

Father Capitolo cares deeply about students. He helps them with their problems. I was involved in an incident a while back and there were some misunderstandings. Father offered his help in clearing up the conflict and this, to me, has proved that he is a beautiful person. Recently, I was on retreat and Father wrote a letter to me. It really expressed his concern about my social, private, and academic life. Because of this I've come to respect him not only as a teacher but as a friend.

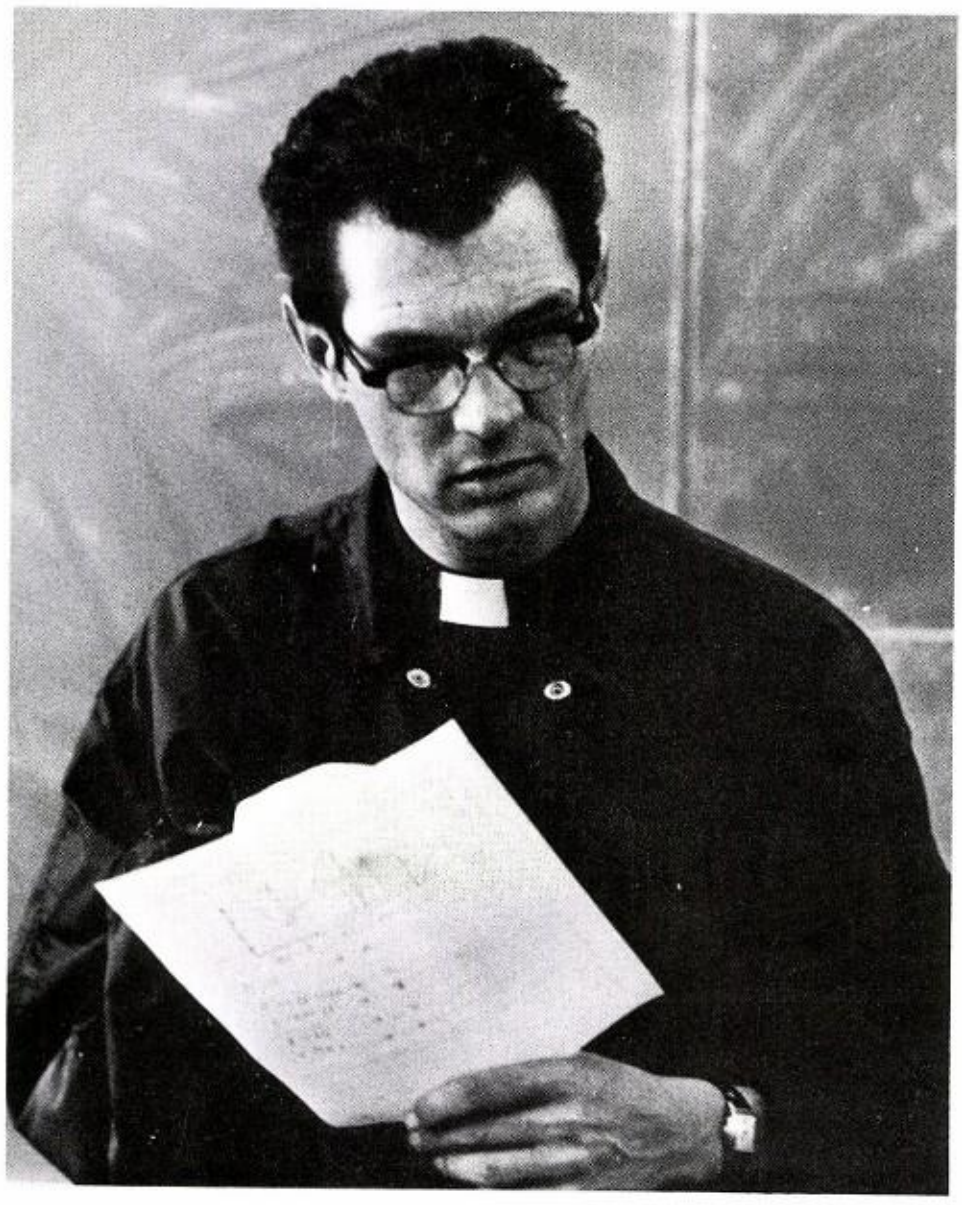
fr. corbett



Father Corbett is the kind of guy who specializes in being non-commital. You could wait an eternity before hearing him say yes or no to anything. The ever lasting answer would be maybe. He's an cheerful sort of man who is always clowning around or cracking jokes. He's an excellent teacher.

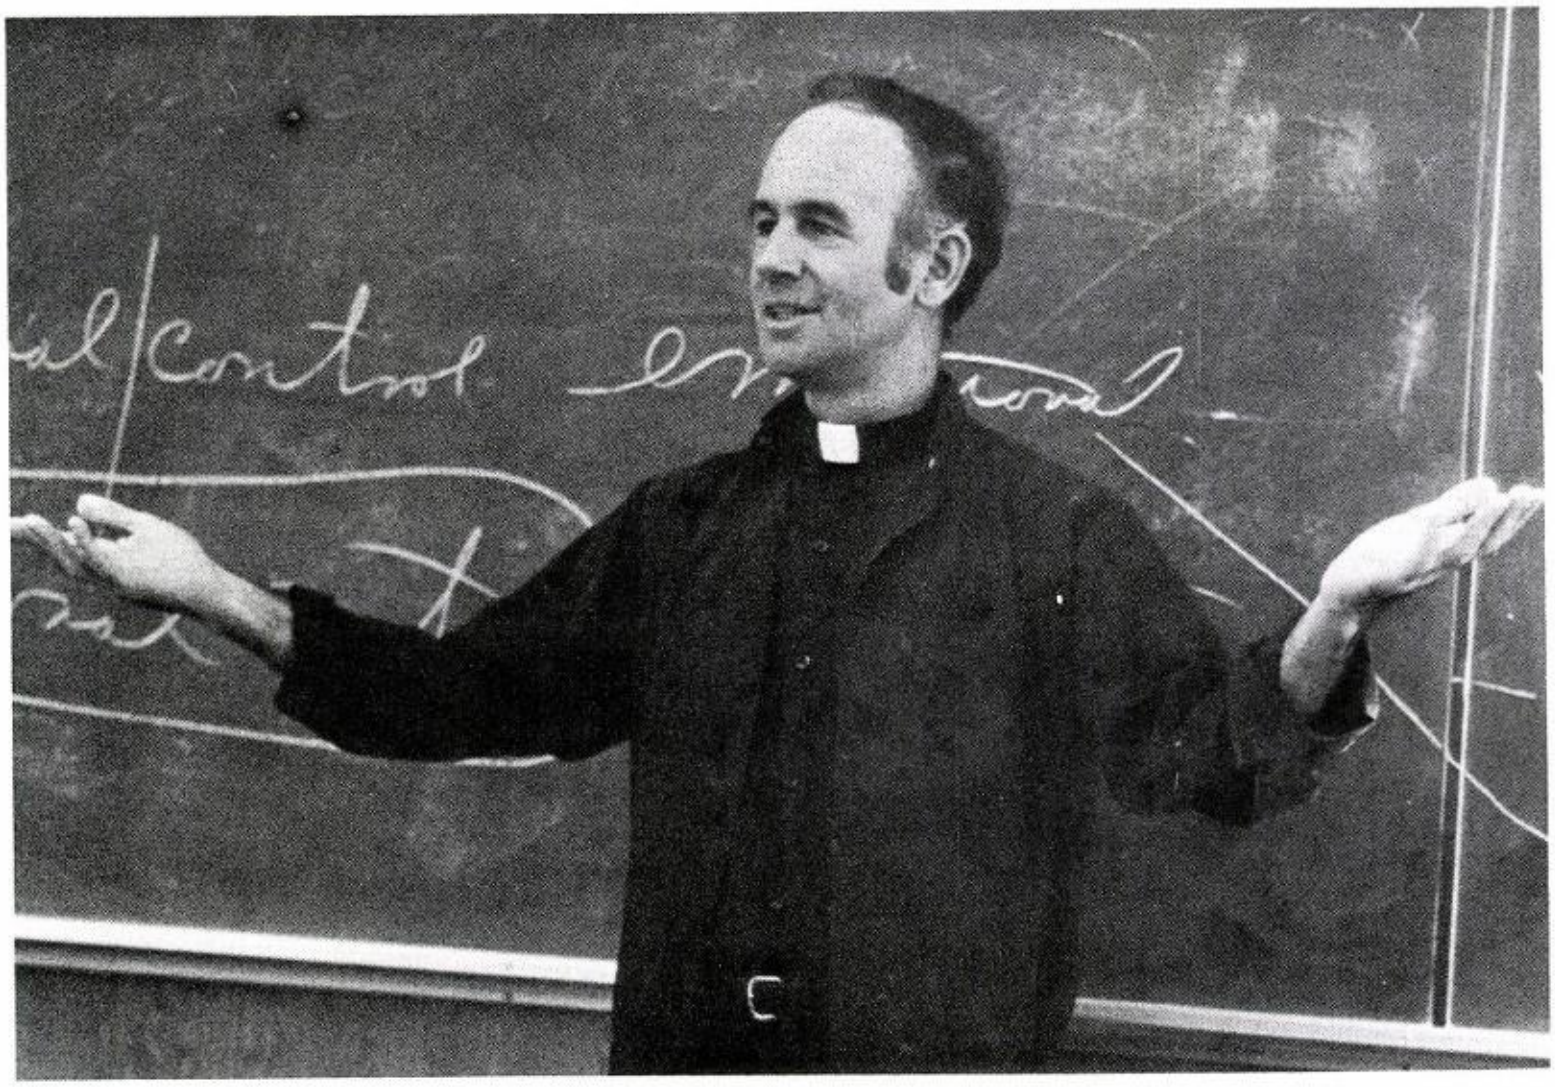
fr. Delaney



Father Delaney is a man diminutive of size, but not intellect. He makes history live; he reveals all the weird and interesting facts about prominent people in Church History. I walk out of his class sometimes with the feeling that I really know the person he was talking about. My only regret was that I haven't gotten to know Father Delaney better. Never before have I been so impressed with a teacher who, in my mind will Nevahhh, nevahhh be forgotten.

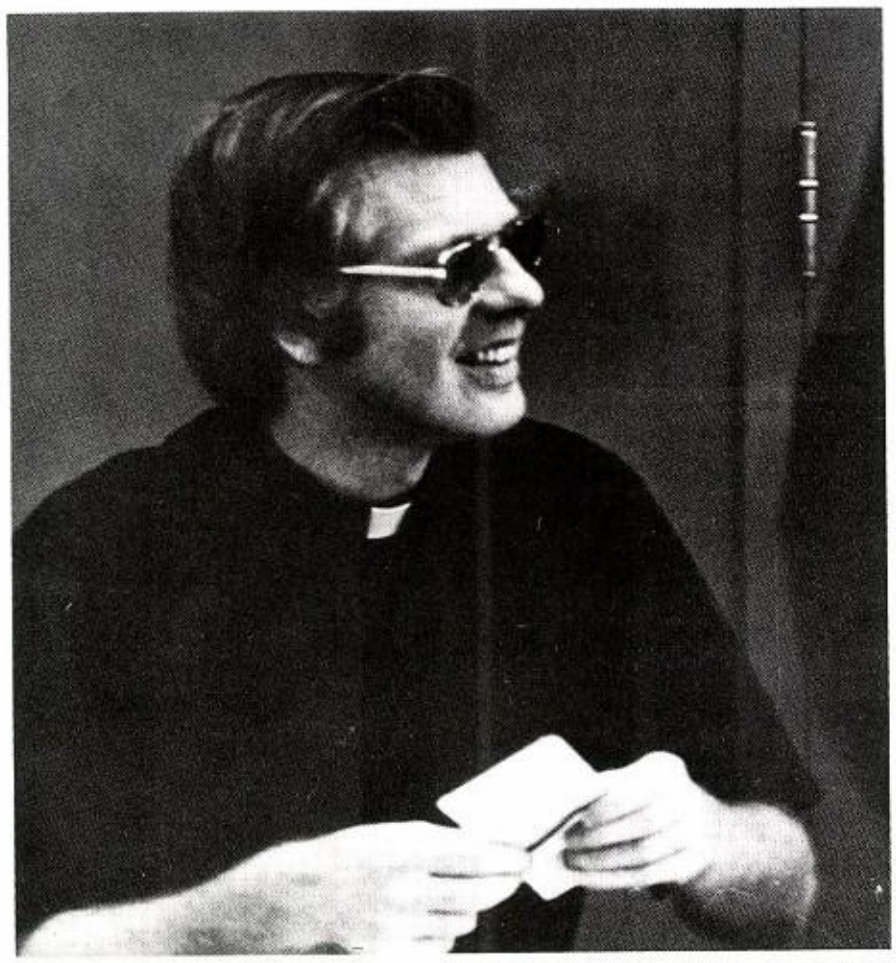
A few years ago, one of Bellarmine's most illustrious athletes returned to teach at his alma-mater. Big Chris Dempsey now has custody of several periods of frosh Man and Environment. In addition to this, he somehow finds enough time to coach varsity basketball. No wonder he lost thirty pounds last summer.



fr. devot

Let's face it. Fatha Devot is one of the pillars of the History Department. His classes range from discussions of the Caroliners to Cuber. However, his real forte is his political analysis. But far be it from him to ever comment on our illustrious president.

mr. DOYLE

When I had the privilege of having Mr. Doyle for an instructor he was studying to be a lawyer. In class he reminded me of Perry Mason the way he would pace up and down the rows of desks. Mr. Doyle truly was the most interesting teacher I have had at Bellarmine.

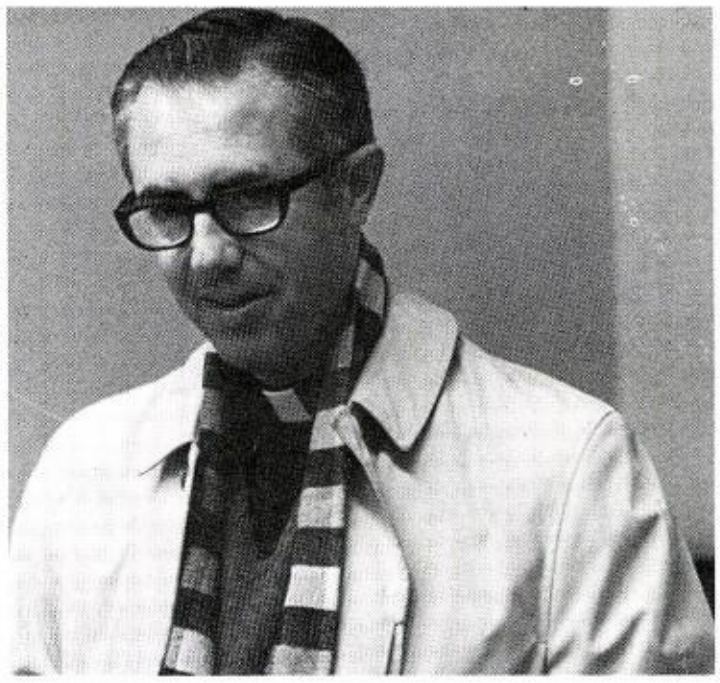
Andy has taught Biology, Philosophy and Religion. His intelligence and sensitivity are evident in and out of the classroom. Andy is far from being passive in his beliefs; he has recently been active in support of the U.F.W.O.C. Mr. D. seems to radiate an inner peace; yet beneath the tranquil exterior lies a dynamic individual.

FR. FARINA



When Father Farina walks down the hall I know exactly how he feels. I can tell by the way he walks. The reason I know his feelings . . . he's easy to get close to. He's sensitive and he cares for the people he is responsible for. The boarding hall is not just a job for him, it's part of his life. It's funny, he comes on strict, but he's let a lot of us off the hook when we really should have been nailed good. That isn't always the case, but we usually expect justice with temperance; he's fair and he cares.

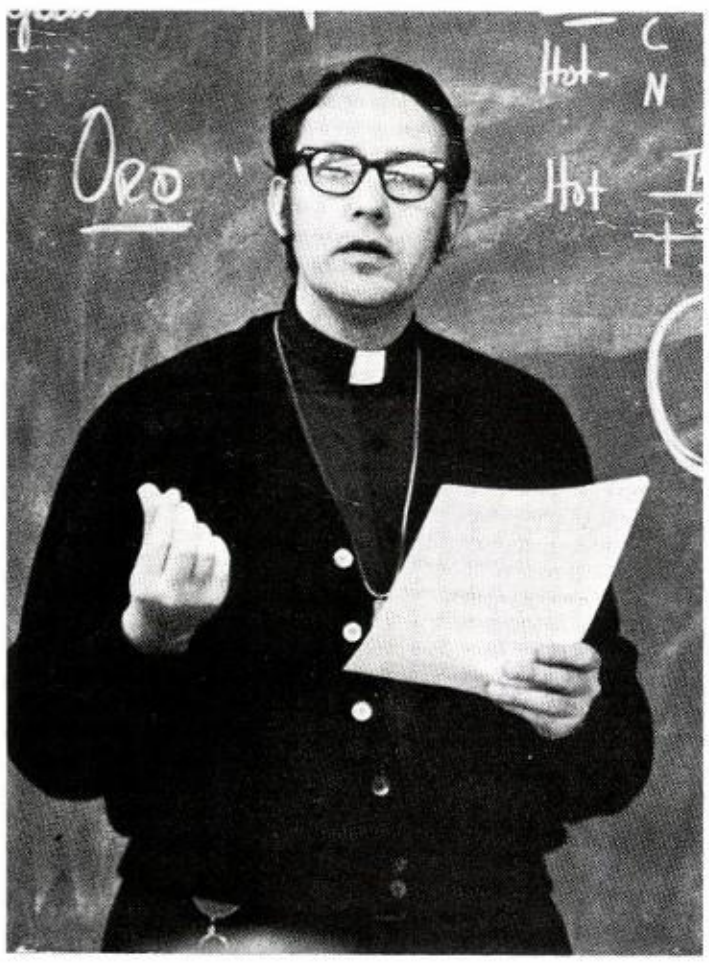
fr. foster



I was glad to see Fr. Foster in the egg-drop contest. Too bad his entry was genetically deficient.----He is a biologist with a sense of morality. I'm sure there's a strong religious motive for what he does at Bellarmine.

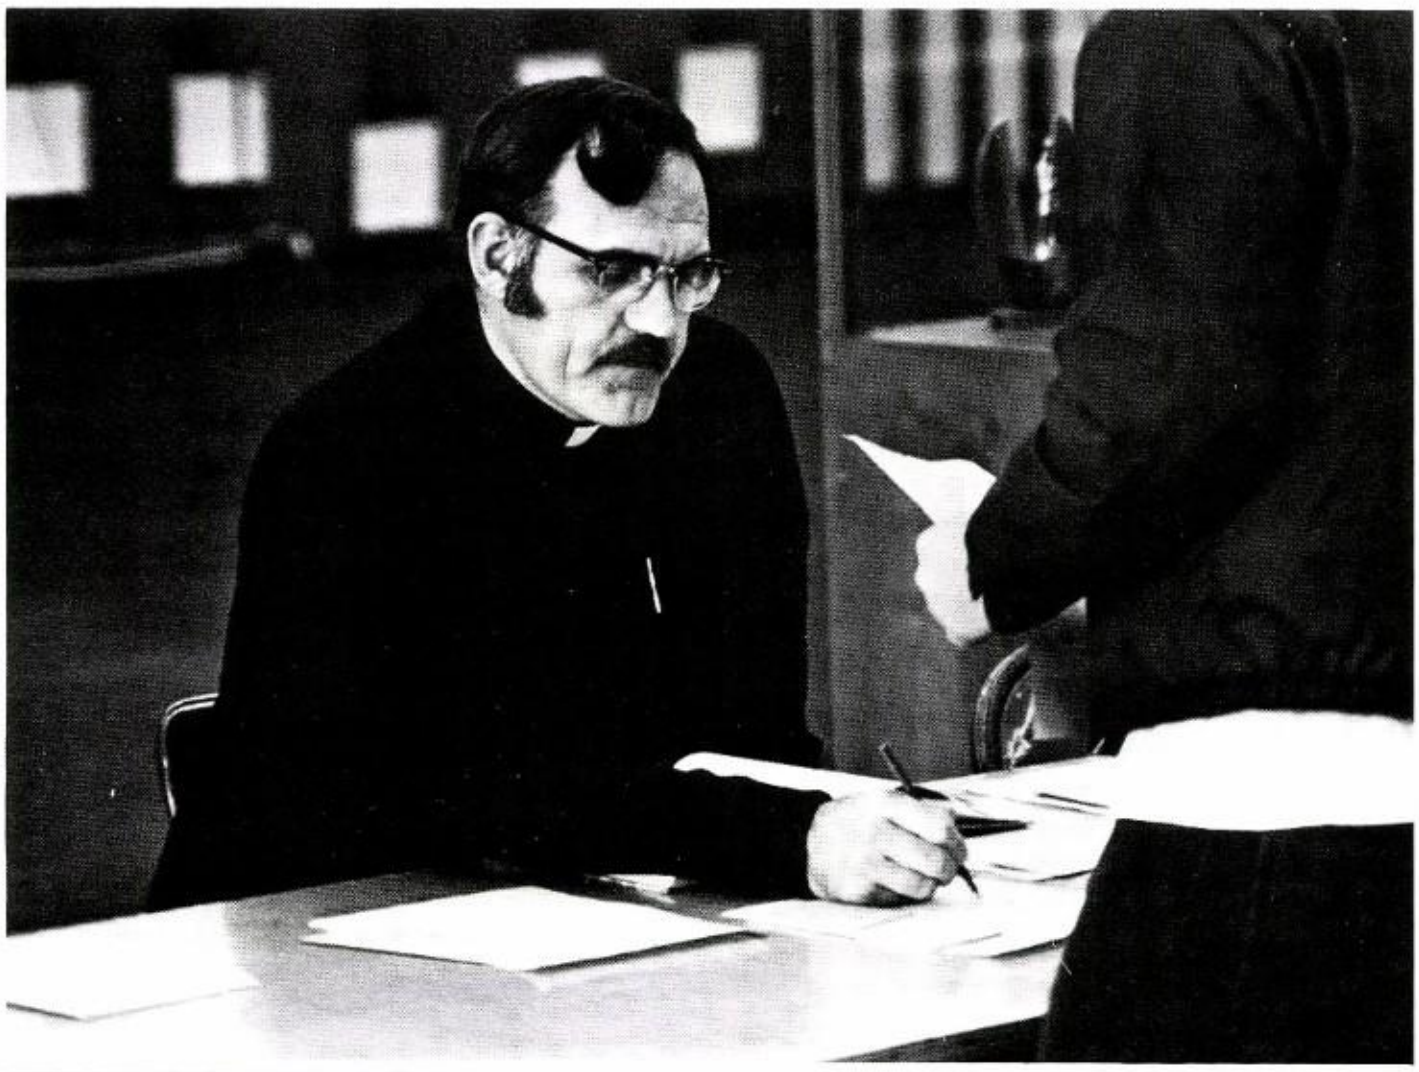
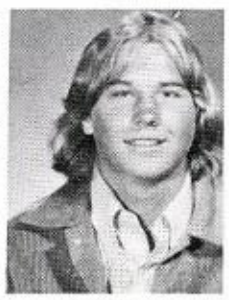
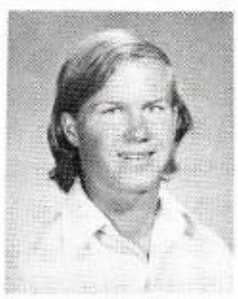
FR. GATTO







Father Gatto is an excellent teacher, but more than that, an understanding person. If you confront him with a personal problem and ask for his help in solving it, he will gladly talk it over. The cheerful attitude with which he helps you is only one of the reasons that I admire and respect Father Bud Gatto.

Fr. Grimaldi

Father Grimaldi seems to be so full of energy that sleeping at night must be a frustrating experience for him. The way he hops around the room keeps everyones attention, no matter what he's saying. His sincerity and wisdom have had quite an impact on me at different times during this year. Our frisbee match against the frosh was truly . . . um . . . an inspirational example of upper and lower classmen working (or should I say, playing) together.

mr. HANNA

This past year Mr. Hanna was involved in a certain amount of campus controversy. Mr. Hanna asked Bellarmine to inquire into the meaning of school "spirit."Throughout this controversy Mr. Hanna carried himself as a gentleman. No matter how difficult the situation, this one quality has always marked Mr. Hanna's service to Bellarmine.

mr. HARVILLE

Beneath the baby fat, long hair and mustache; Mr. Harville is a dramatic person. He always gets his point across with flair; there is no lack of communication. In class he will initiate a discussion by mentioning some problem or issue. He doesn't lead the discussion; he let's the class do that.

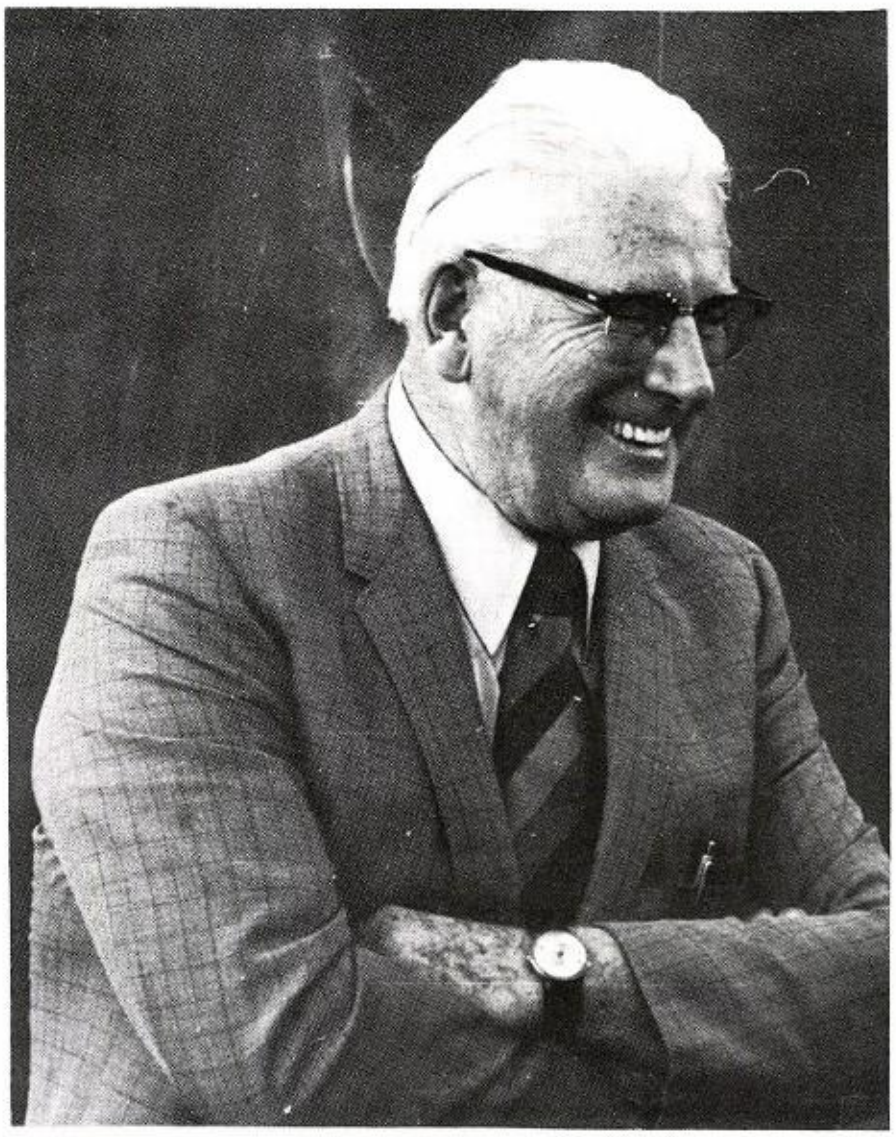
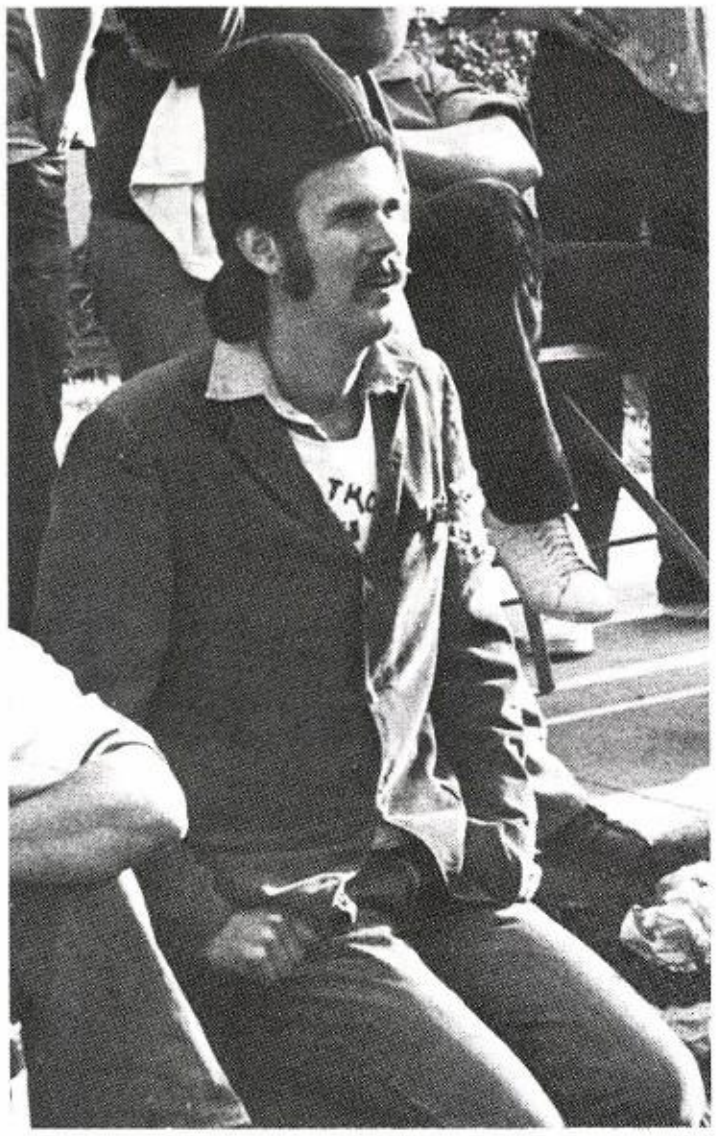
Mr. Heenan

Mr. Heenan was one of Bellarmine's most successful football coaches. The same drive which carried he and his teams to so many victories is now demonstrated in his teaching of history. However, winning football coaches are men that are made of many qualities. Perhaps, the most essential quality in this type of man is understanding. This is the one quality which I have seen most in Mr. Heenan. His understanding enhances his teaching and makes you glad you have had the opportunity to know this man.





mr. kennedy

Mike is a mellow person who has done a lot of good for a lot of people. He has been the force behind food drives, tutoring programs, clothing drives and various other charitable activities. Mike is also cool to just sit down and shoot the bull with for awhile, whether or not you agree with his views. If you don't agree with him, he won't try to convert or reform you and make you swallow what he says. He's a good man.

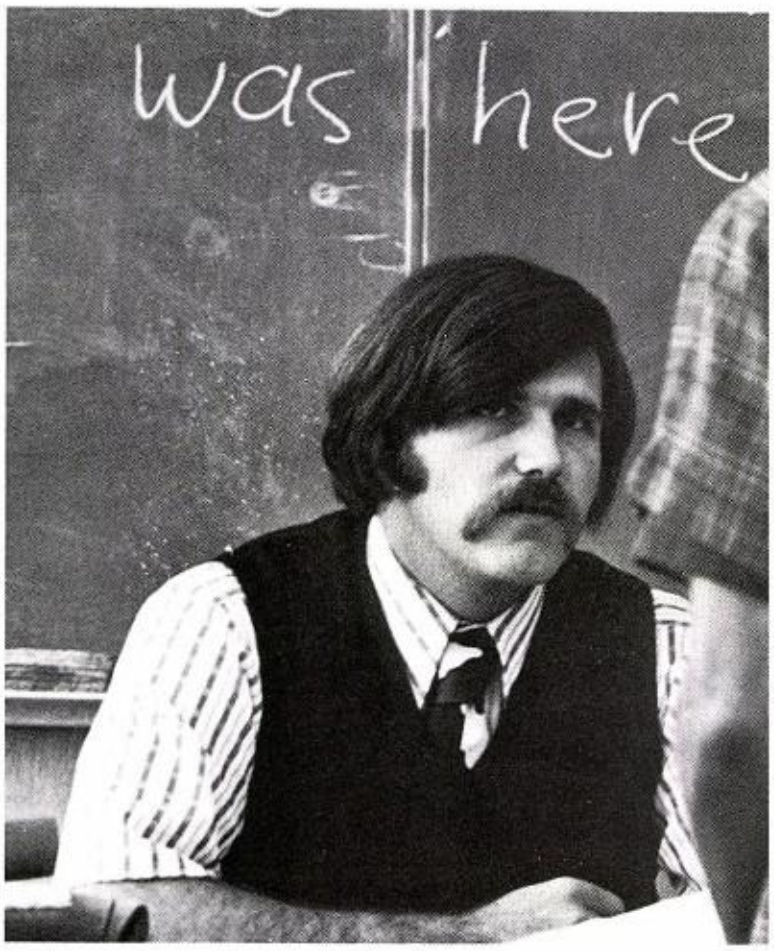
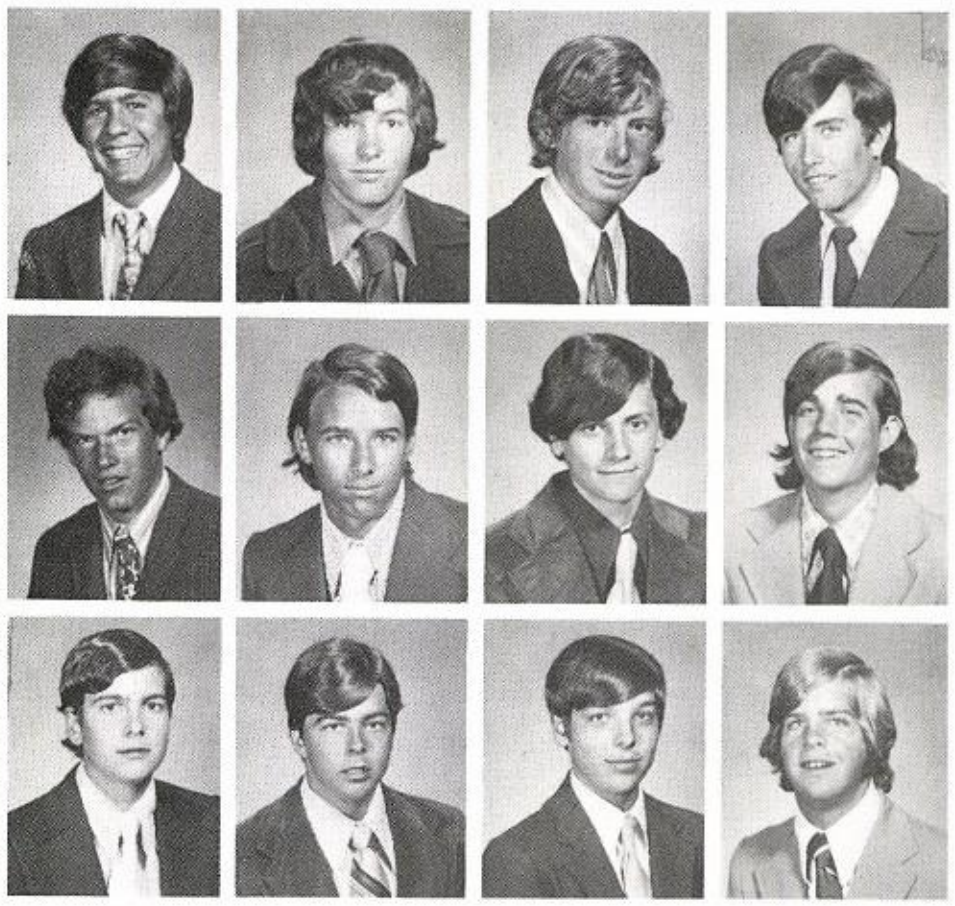
But, when all else fails, you'll hear her uttter that famous phrase, "Go see Mr. Frietas!"

MR. lauro





Larry is a teacher who comes across as a real person in class instead of putting himself on a pedestal. He has done a lot for me this year-he's helped me to become more conscious of myself and other people. I can't say that about too many people.

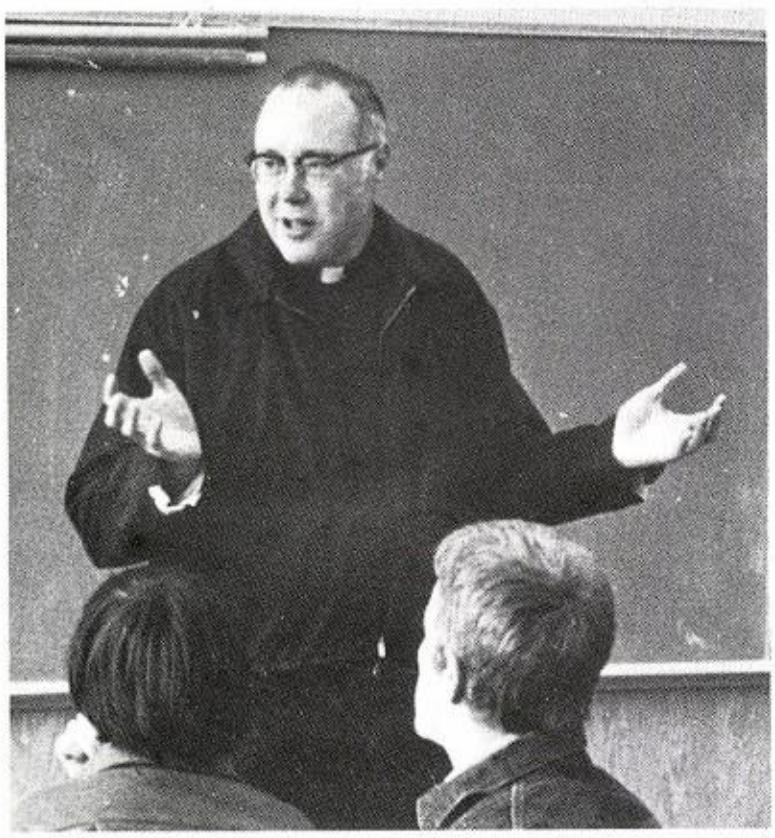
Aside from stacking books and keeping Francisco in line, Mrs. Lungard conducts a mentoring period. I enjoy the sessions so much I'd rather be there than sitting in Mr. Harville's English class — the Bellarmine fight song never sounded better with Mrs. Lungard leading it.



FR. MATHEWSON

Father Mathewson is not quite the person people make him out to be. He isn't the typical principal; he is very understanding and very much into the educational trip. From what I've seen of him, he is ready to listen to criticism about this school and he's not afraid to criticize it himself. He is open to suggestions to affect change. Yeah he's right on.

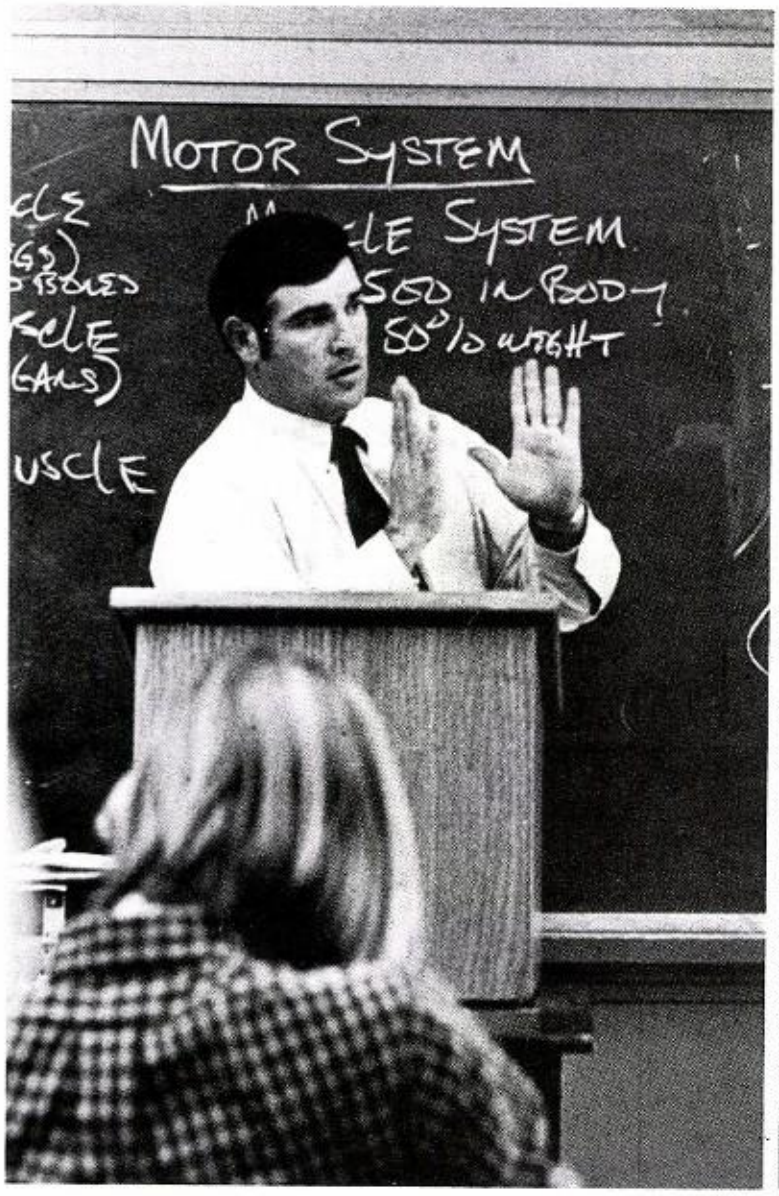
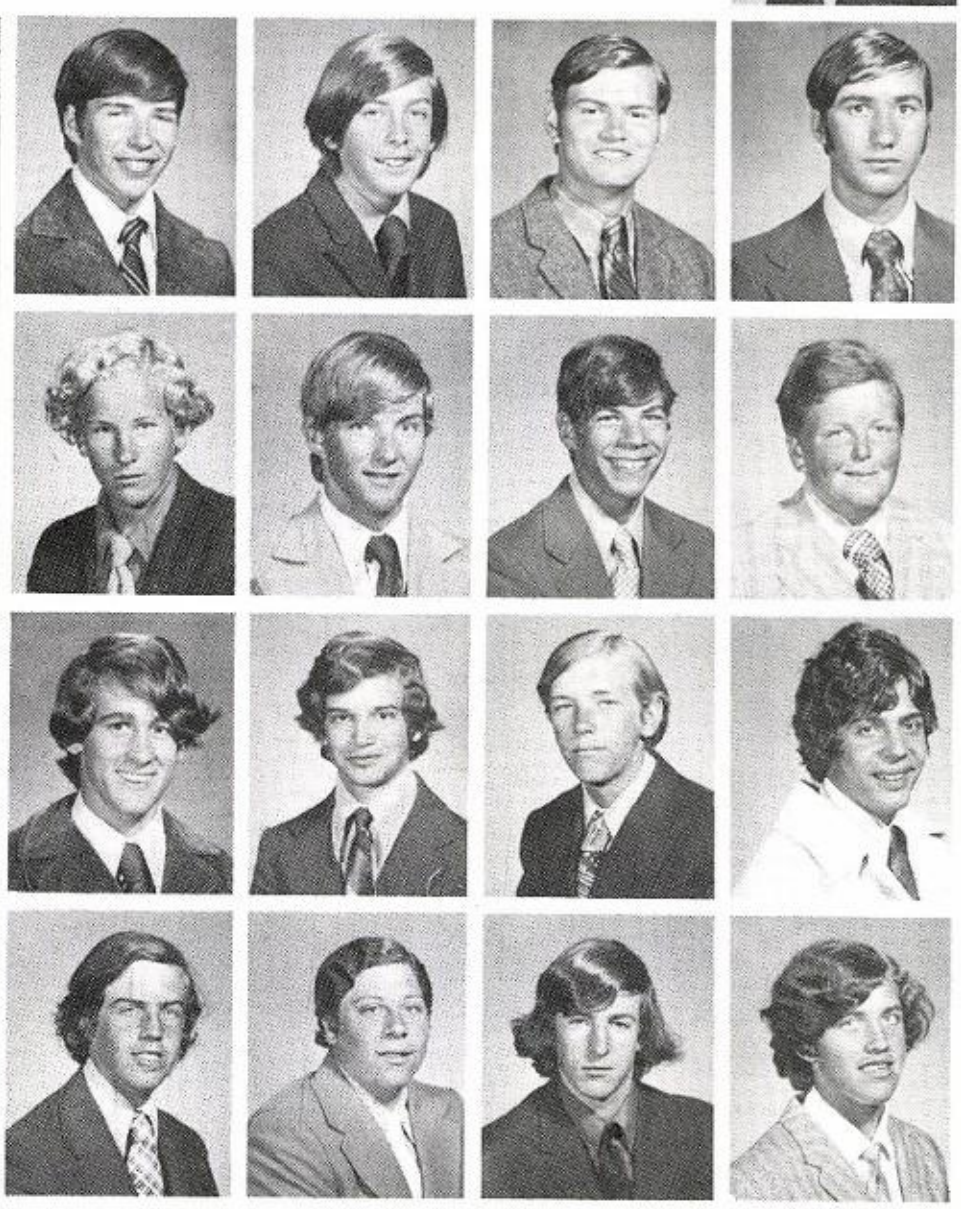
MR. MAZZUCA





Bob Mazzuca is a very big man. His shirt ripples when he moves. As he talks he pounds the board with the chalk after every word he writes. He is a lively teacher and his mentoring period is fun. However, mentoring could be improved if: we could study more, the class was quicker, and Matt Alexander would stop throwing paper footballs.

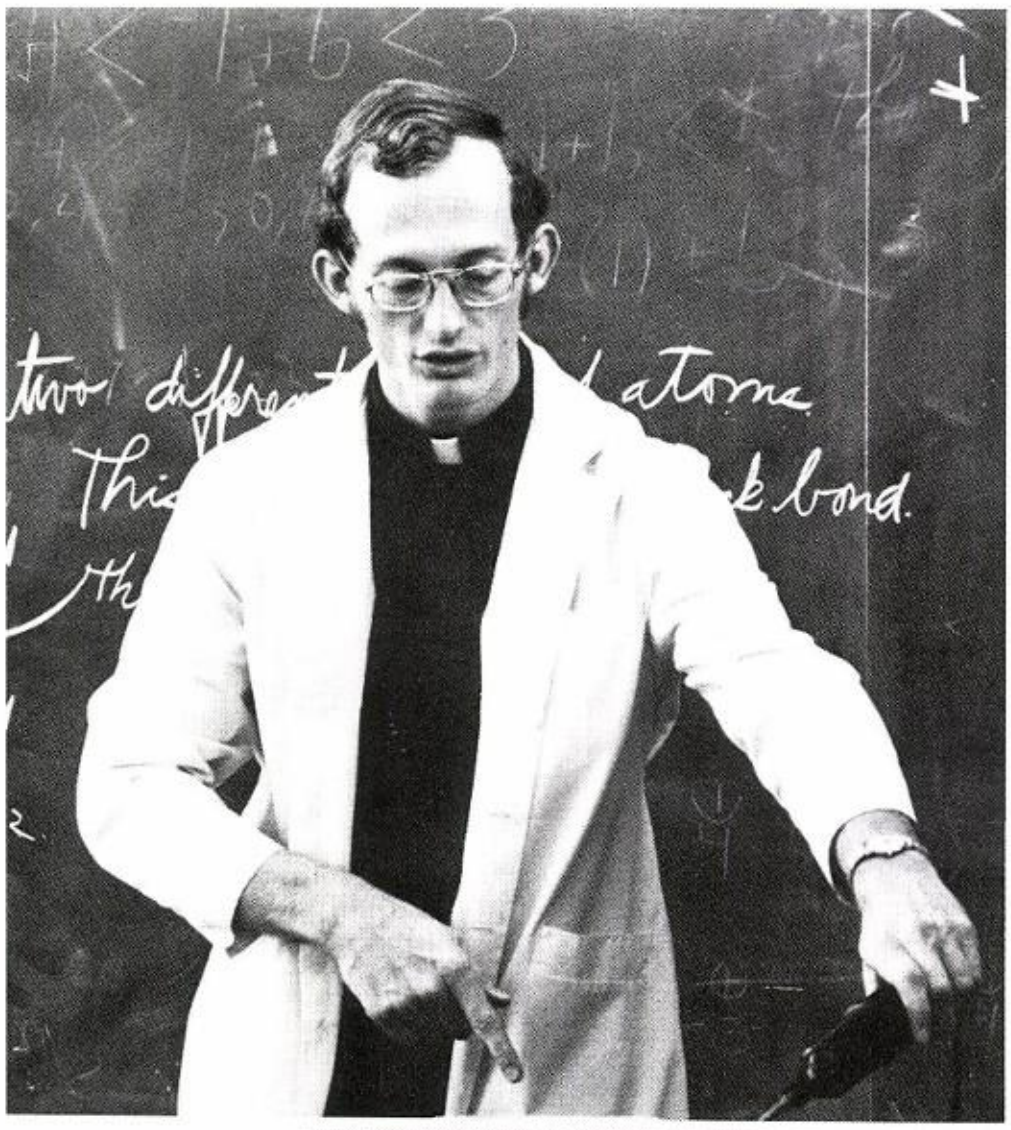
Fr. MORRIS

I'm afraid I don't know Fr. Morris very well but from what I've seen of him, he's very easy going and comical. He's a laugh; even when he kicks you out of the nice, warm library on a cold morning. He can put up with a lot without blowing his stack even when he's dealing with a bunch of rowdies. From what I've heard he is as good a teacher as he is a man.

Mr. Muth



I have Mr. Muth for two classes and I have him for a mentor. He is a very quiet person who really knows what he's doing. Rather than joke around like some teachers, he gets right down to the point. He explains everything clearly. This keeps his students interested in the course because they understand what's going on. What else can I say? He's a good man.

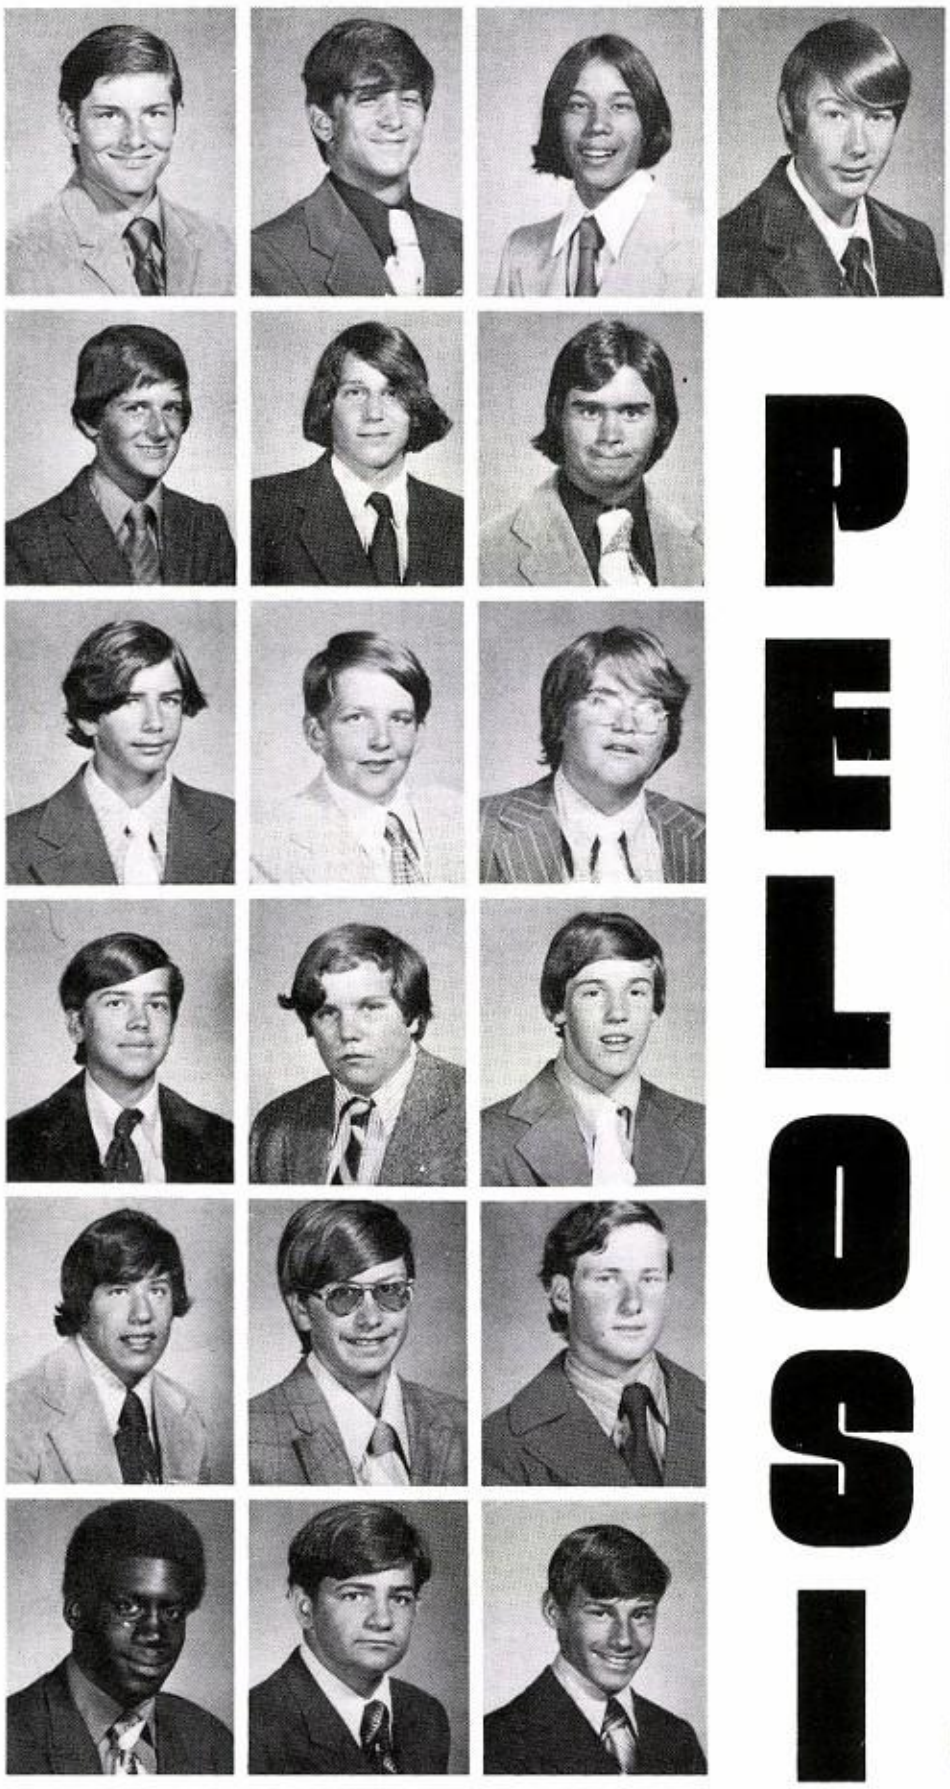
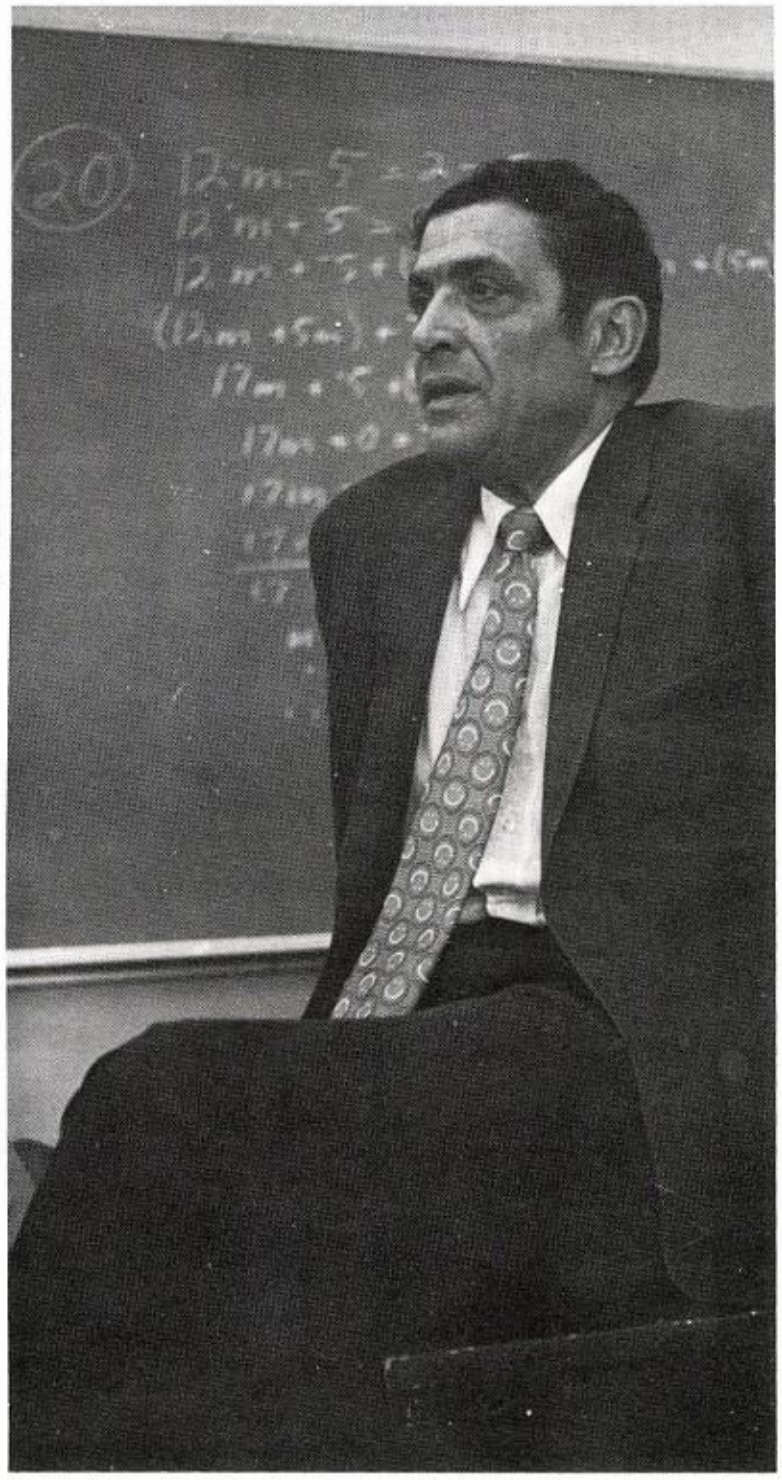
Mr. PELOSI





Mr. Pelosi is a man who has done more for me than just teach math. Mr. Pelosi has given me the confidence I need. I was once scared, like many freshmen were. Mr. Pelosi did not pity us underclassmen, yet he was like a father to his class, yelling at us, getting us to work hard and do well. He has the power to attract your attention; you can learn quickly and conscisely and enjoy yourself at the same time. Mr. Pelosi is a man who captured the respect of many others as well as mine. In looking back, it was amazing to see how fast you have grown up in one short year Mr. Pelosi made it a lot easier to do.

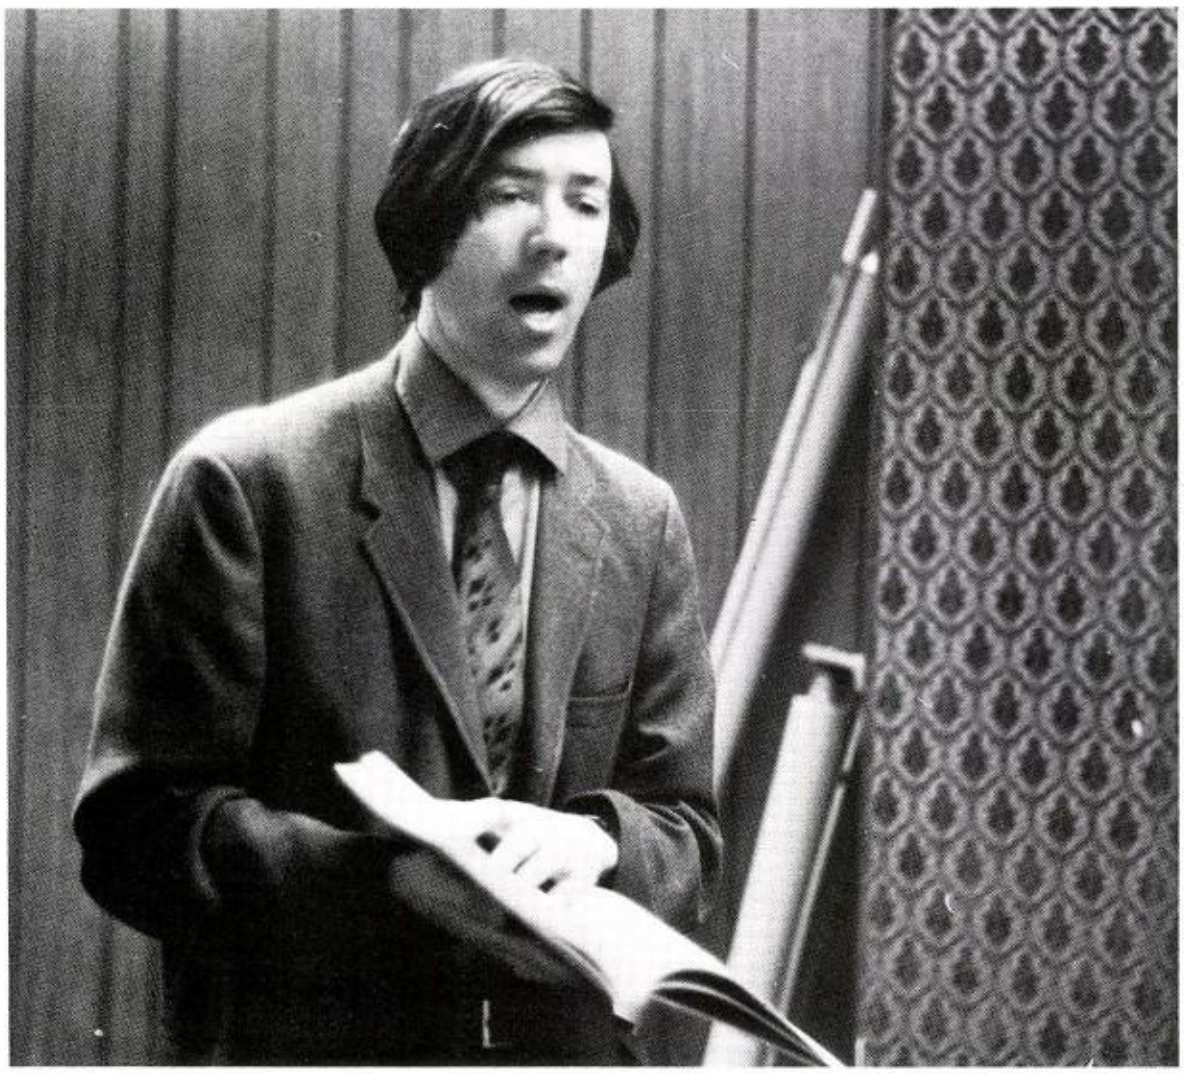
mr. phelan



If he stood behind a flagpole you wouldn't be able to see. Mr. Phelan is the school's best operator when it comes to collecting donations from his class. He would bet on who could beat him into playing one-to-one. Once he threw an eraser across the room into the waste basket--he made two dollars on that one; it all went to the Food Drive. You've got to be careful in his class, he can easily catch you cheating. He sneaks up to you sideways and you can't see him when your telling someone the answers--unless he wears a wide tie.

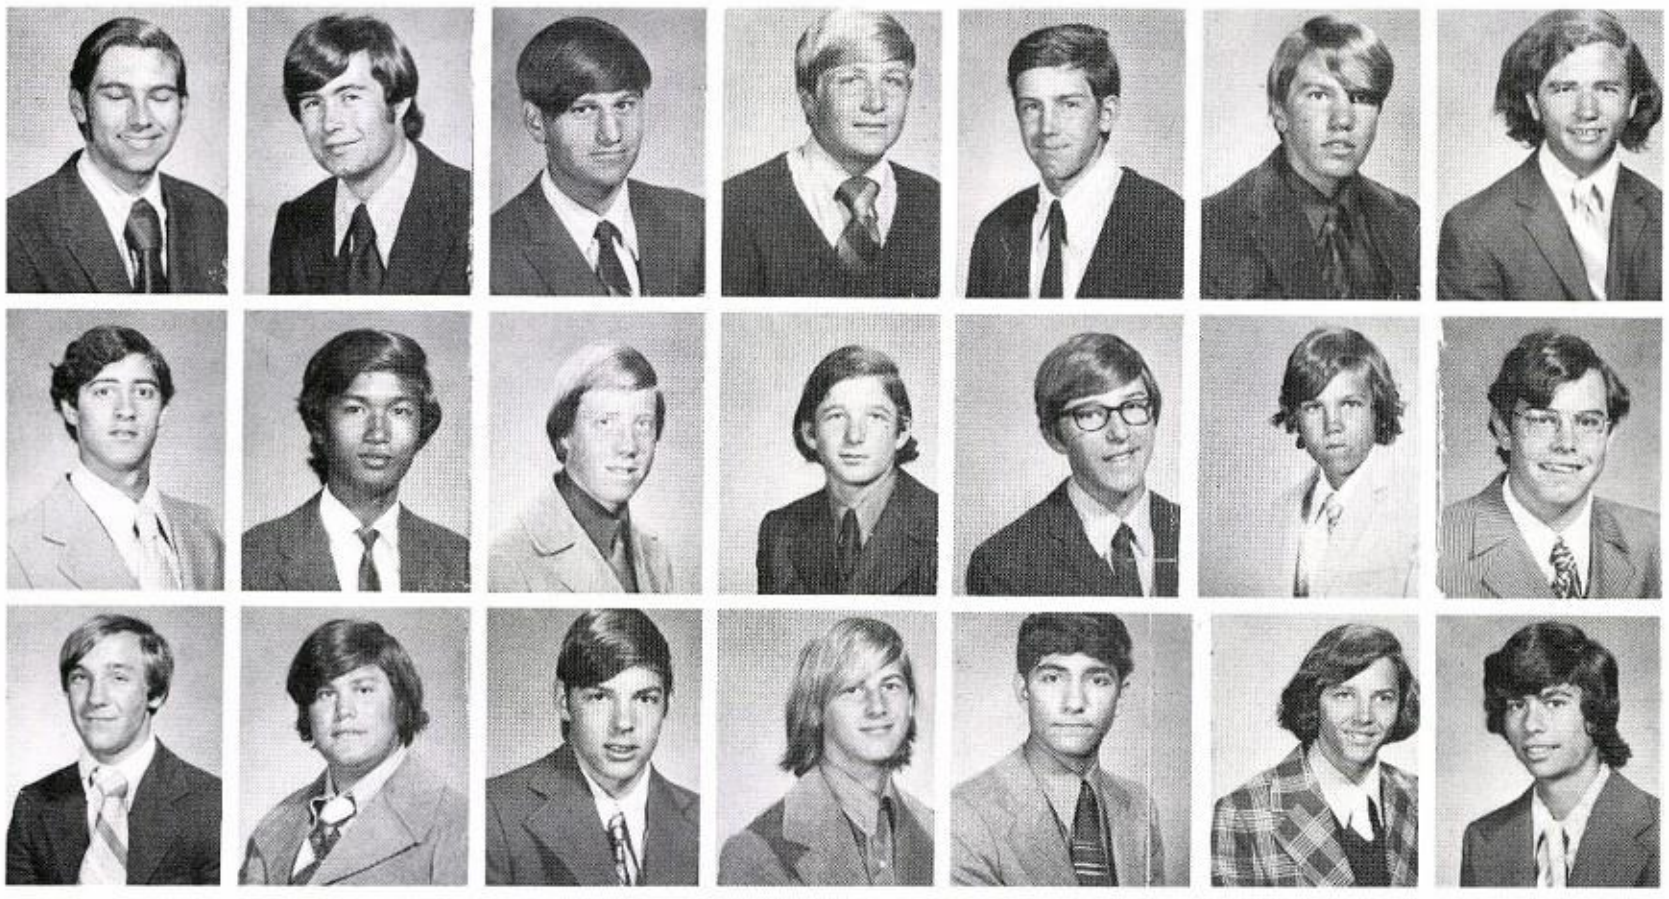
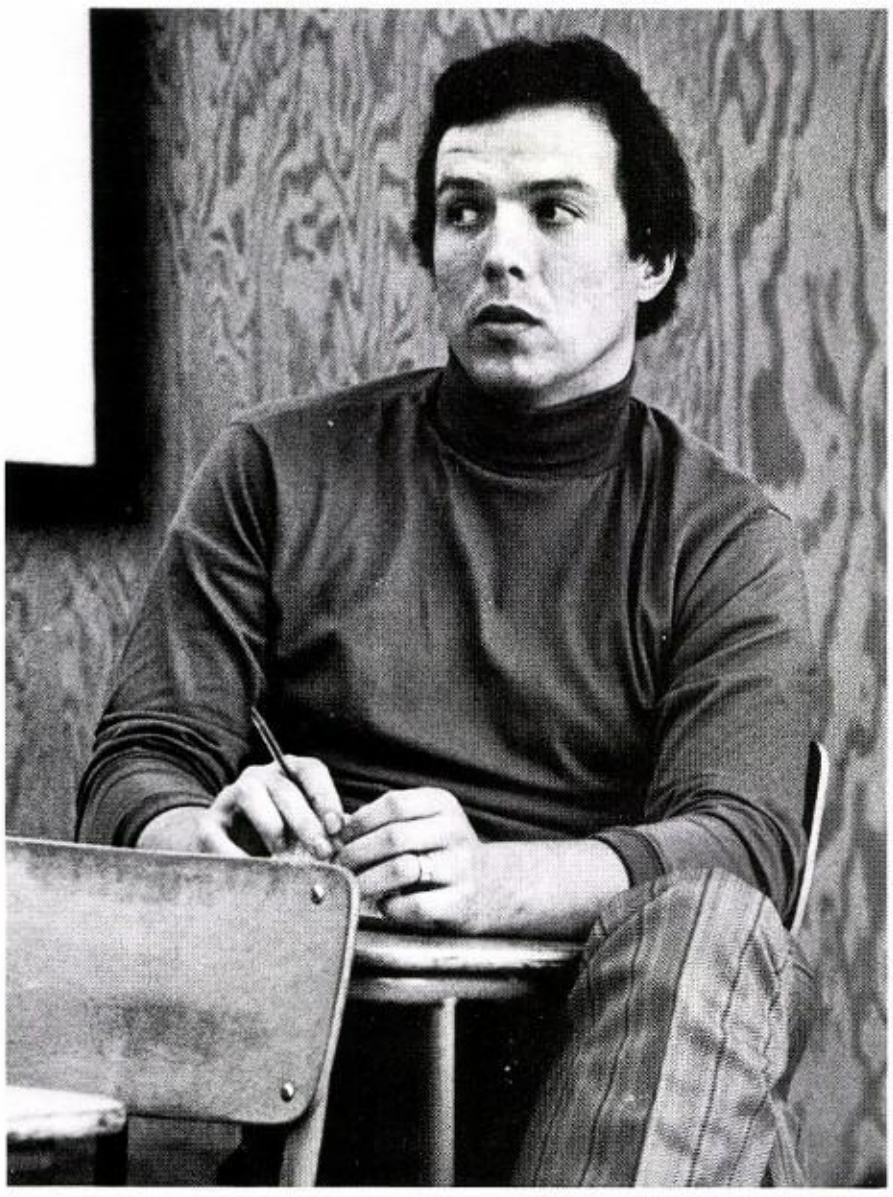
Mr. REYERSON





I think Mr. Reyerson is a very good mentor. The reasons I feel this way are he takes each individual out of class and talks to him and gets to know him personally. During class he throws out a question and asks for the students views on the question. After the students have given their view Mr. Reyerson gives his own. I feel Mr. Reyerson's mentoring class is a worth while one.

Mr. Robinson is another member of Bellarmines fuzzy-faced Faculty who is always right to the point. He is both level-headed and creative. He constantly motivates his class to get involved in the subject matter, which they do. Mr. Robinson is an out-going sort of person who can put you at ease. You're not afraid to tell him anything and he's always willing to help you if he can.

FR. ROCK

I know Fr. Martin Rock as a counselor. I usually find it very difficult to open up to someone and confide in him. Not so with Fr. Rock. He straightened me out on a lot of things, mainly religion. He doesn't come on and preach to you, but by the time you're through discussing religion with him, you usually see it his way, or at least appreciate his viewpoints. He knows where he stands, and he knows where you stand.

I think that the most helpful teacher I've had was Father Roide. He doesn't just teach you out of a book, he does more. He brings the subject right to you. When he talks he knows what he's saying. Father made me see many things that I haven't seen before and probably never would have seen. He looks at things and then puts them to you in such a way as to make it easy for you to understand and decide for yourself what to think.

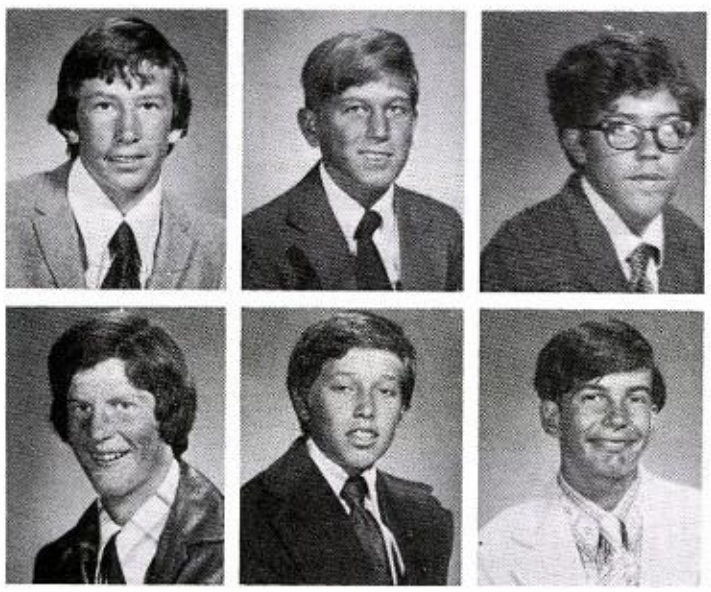
MR. ROMANO



In "Andersonville," I thought he was too hang loose at first. Yet he gave me freedom and responsibility to do something for my part and for the show. In the long run, he was right. He used to say, "I'm not getting up there opening night, you are."

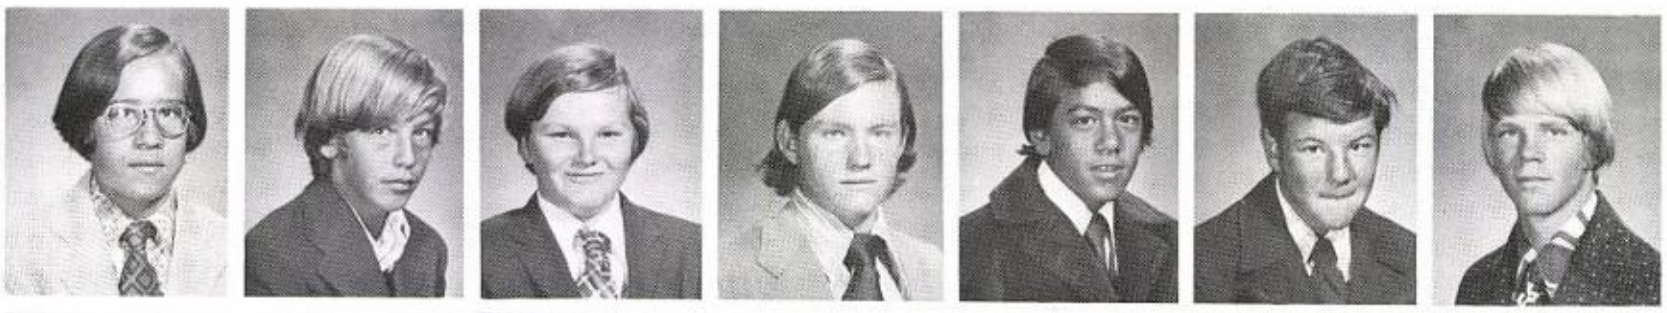
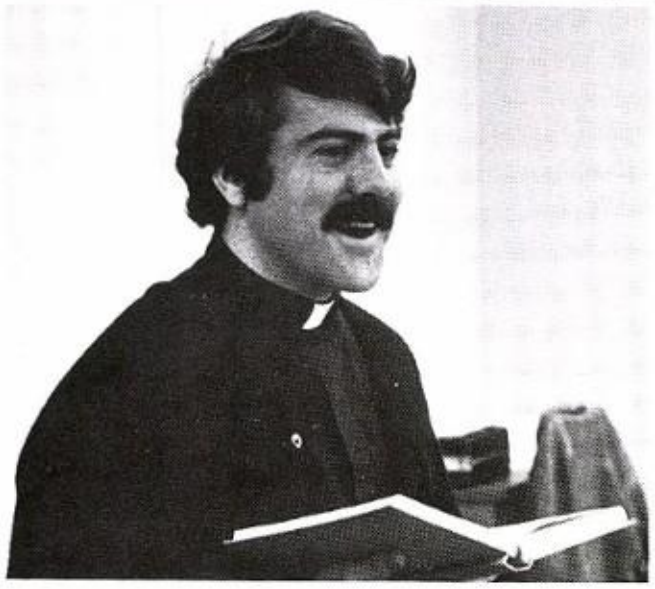
Mr. Ruth is a good math teacher. He's an easy going well-rounded man who can get across a point with a little humor. Speaking of humor, a few months ago he started to grow a mustache - it finally sprouted!





Mr. Schaukowitch wears his mustache like Charlie Chaplin in The Great Dictator. When someone comes to class late with a note, he will scowl at the piece of paper for a moment, then look up at you with his mustache twitching wildly. That mustache adds a lot to class.

Father has helped me in the past two years, not only as a teacher, but as a counselor. He is someone that I can talk freely and openly to about anything, whether it's school, my personal life, or whatever. He's cool--rather than discredit me for something I do wrong, he'll talk about it with me, and we'll resolve it together.

I have Mr. Sondreal for Algebra II. Mr. Sondreal is a quiet, conscientious, humble teacher who has a great deal of concern for his students' spiritual as well as academic lives. I feel it is good that Mr. Sondreal preaches about how God has helped him during his life. When he tells us of his experiences with God, it gives me sort of a lift during the day. I feel that the whole class benefits from his telling of his experiences. I feel that through Mr. Sondreal I have gained a closer relationship with God.

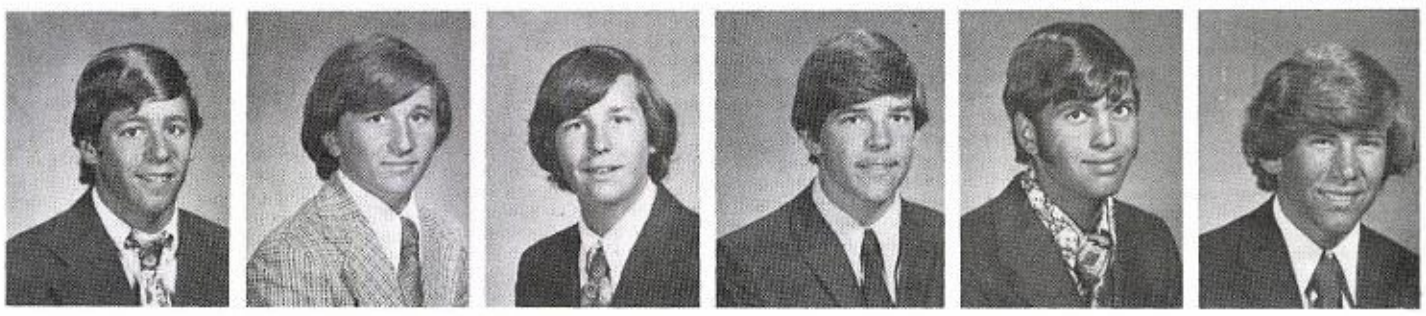
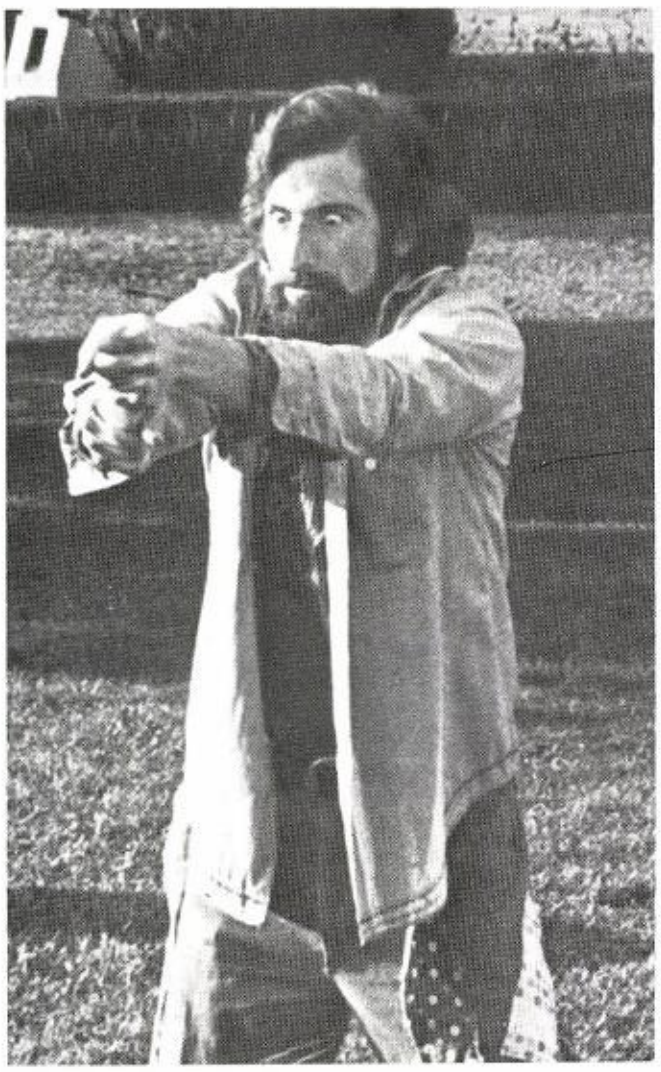
Father Spoletini is a small, quiet man whose accent is as Italian as lasagna. He begins class with a thought for the day. Sometimes he lets class flow into other subjects, if he feels that it would be a good learning experience. Father will go out of his way to help you out if anything is unclear. Discipline is never any problem in class. If you get out of line, he'll "Fixa you."





mr. stickney

Josh knows all the tricks. I had done poorly on a test so I talked it over with him. He had to make a phone call and would be right back. The grade book was staring me in the face--I don't know why but I changed my grade. The next day he confronted me with the deed. I denied that I had done it. He knew I was lying and yet, he didn't turn me in. He just wrote a quote from Othello on the board during class; "Smile, smile the villian." I respect that man, he gave me a break I didn't deserve.

FR. STOUT

Fr. Stout is one of those rare mentors, a man of supreme leadership. If he speaks, no one else does. He has control over the class without emphasizing any harsh restrictions. This is acredited to one of his characteristics-respect.

Oh goodie! Time to get out the ol' poison pen and write on everyone's favorite BellarMAN, "Wild Bill" Sullivan. I sure hope you goons running the yearbook print this up 'cause it's supposed to be funny. Big Bill is the only one at this place who walks around in clodhoppers and sports a black cookie-catcher. His monthly pay check goes to two things, paying off lost bets and buying new Websters Dictionaries for his A.P. classes (or whoever else might wander into his room) to rip-off. When will you learn, Sulli? People have itchy fingers. Bill is famous for bleeding all over your term papers and making loudmouths (like me) do push-ups in class when they smart-off. But, after a year of grueling work, all that red ink and all those notes pay off. After all, if it wasn't for all that work and Mr. Sullivan's excellent teaching, I wouldn't be able to write this! P.S. You're all-right, Bill.

Ms. WALSH

The thing I really dig about Ms. Walsh is the way she really gets you into the subject she's teaching. You become so wrapped up in what is going on that you tend to forget everything else. She's a very dramatic, captivating teacher.

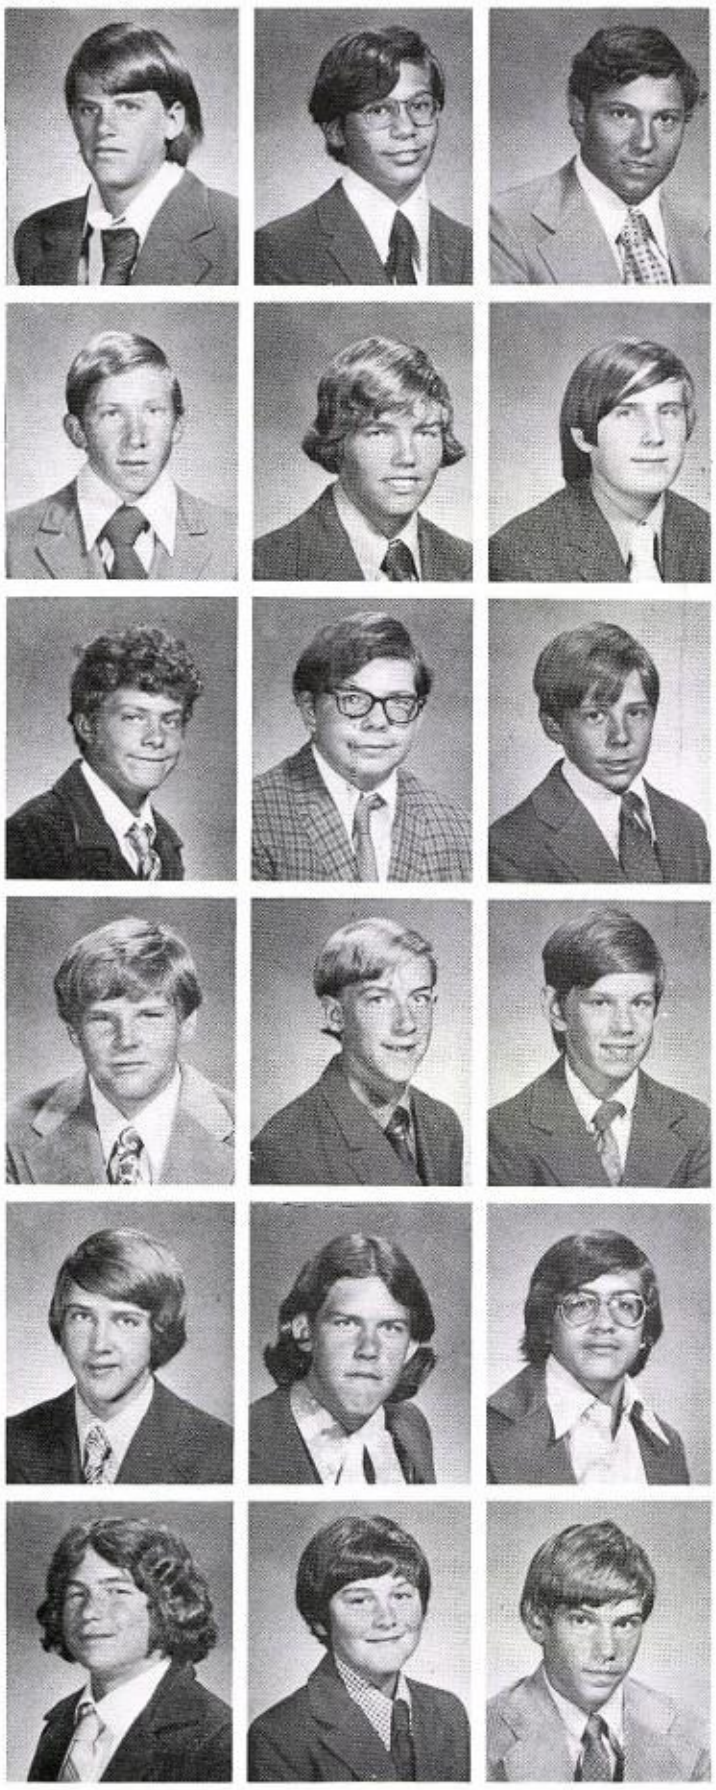
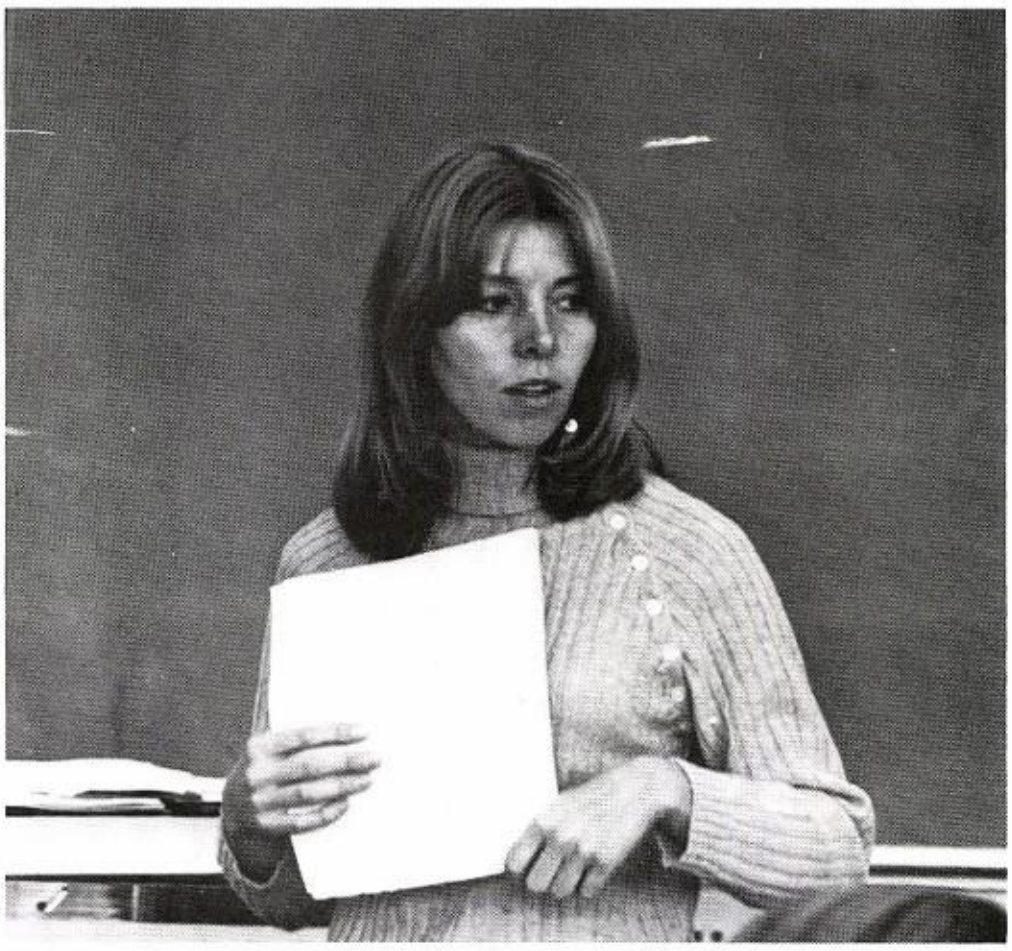
MRS. WILLWEBER





Mrs. Willweber was my favorite teacher. She was as involved in many important causes and student activities. She was active in the food drive and walk-a-thon. Her concern for the poor was as great as her concern for her students. She was also lots better looking than a Jesuit.

I must say the Zip is a pretty good teacher for a rookie. He is learning just as much as his students each day, maybe more. One off these days he might even learn to say something funny about the people he loves--the Italians. Every class he always has his so called Italian jokes ready, which just proves that we Italians are always on his mind. Ifa he'sa gooda boy la usea my power anda makea him an honorary M.A.F.I.A. victim.

SPECIAL THANKS TO PHOTOGRAPHERS DOUG LINNEY AND FRANK CAMPAGNA

THANKS AND A THOUGHT

Following moderator Dick Robinson's plea for a different CARILLON, the staff of the 1974 CARILLON began pasting together a new yearbook. As the method changed the work increased and the deadlines appeared with little regard to personal schedules. Four and five A.M. were regular bedtime hours during deadlines and some of the staff called the office home for three days at a time.

Some of these people deserve special recognition for their initiative and self denial. Frank Campagna and Doug Linney spent countless hours taking, developing and printing pictures. Associate Editor, Emilio Alvarez, invested many weekends and afternoons developing new ideas. Al DiPippo, copy editor, continued to put out good copy and to keep up with the production staff. Greg Blaine, Lou Stagnitto, Dave DeSaulnier, and Paul Wagstaffe sacrificed numerous afternoons in maticulous work of production. Bill Lauer, Jay Cattermole, Pete O'donnell, Gary Hoff, Lloyd Leanse, Tim Blaine, and Greg MacDonald also deserve credit for their efforts. Special thanks goes to moderator Dick Robinson S.J., Paul Bacosa Studios and yearbook advisor Don Wilson.

Within each day a person experiences times of joy, frustration and sorrow, but as that day passes the experiences of that day are gone forever. In hopes that one lives for each minute and experience before it elapses. I have presented a portfolio of some of those moments which are gone and only linger as memories of yesteryear, wishing to be relived.

One lives from one moment to the next and attempts to be fully aware of the importance of that moment which slips away in an instant. We must learn to live each moment of our lives with intensity, regretting no moment, for each moment is meant to be lived. The 1974 CARILLON is the sum of many moments. None are to be regretted. Rather they should dramatize the need to live each present moment fully.
